If attendance is a test, the Los Angeles County fair is a great success. The first bad news I got about it was when the ticket sellers for grandstand seats announced standing room only. Now I didn't ride 30 miles for a perpendicular position on a hot Sunday afternoon, so that announcement was as unwelcome as a county tax bill. My misery was shared by several thousand other fair attendants who heard the same news. So what to do?

Walking is easier than standing, so the county fair marathon started and ended at the side of one of the exhibit buildings where the shade offered some comfort, even if the grandstand didn't. There wasn't any acacia tree near, but four weary souls sat down to rest and refreshment on a cement curb which had had the elasticity removed, but was the best substitute for a chair that could be found.

But I'm still disturbed about that grandstand. I had a vision of an interesting afternoon, exciting horse races, intermission entertainment, radio programs, cold drink "spies" and babies, fat mammals and lean babies, cocktail aromas, and cosmetic consternations. Well, maybe I was expecting too much out of the grandstand, but I've been to county fairs before.

If I could have obtained a private interview with President Huston I'd sent him home to get me a high chair. There is always some way to overcome an emergency. They have so many electrical devices nowadays that Huston should have been able to furnish me a shock of some kind, and I think he would have been glad to do so.

The consolidation of small county fairs into one large fair, while it may take away some of the individuality, contributes to the amalgamated exhibition, and it cannot be denied that the Los Angeles county fair has grown into proportions impossible as an individual unit. Orange and Riverside and San Bernardino and Imperial and Ventura and other counties avail themselves of the opportunity to present their respective resources to a much larger audience than possible if it were a strictly county event.

It so impressed me as I viewed the exhibits in the various departments, Gee, there was enough pastry to give all the school kids an abdominal disturbance, if they were allowed to roam at will and test and taste to their hearts content. Even if they couldn't break into the judges' ranks, samples were as free as running water. It was a great place for the undernourished.

You know I think there is something to that old couplet "as snug as a bug in a rug." More rugs on display than I ever saw before. I like rugs when they don't trip you over on a hardwood floor. Then I don't call 'em rugs. But the ones I saw were in a perfectly safe position. They were hanging on the wall, and I quit walking that way a long time ago.

And the profusion of flowers would drive a floriculturist into ecstasy or, at least, into a state of mind to remember the names and origin and habits and temperaments of the flora revealing the handiwork of nature, and the patience and research of the plant wizards.

Maybe it's just as well I didn't get into the grandstand. I had a dollar over after getting in and transportation, and in the horse-racing excitement and encouragement and banter of some good-natured friends I might have come home without the dollar. Horse racing is a temptation, especially when it gets the pari mutuel come-on.

However, I did want to get a place to sit down, and that place was in the grandstand. After failing to gain admission, I got in front of the place, and decided that it was big enough if there hadn't been so many people who wanted to get in at the same time. But if the popularity of the fair is going to increase, it naturally follows that grandstand accommodations must follow. I'm not sure about not getting in, but somehow or other I am disappointed that I didn't, and inasmuch as misery likes a little company, I

FDR PRAISES BONNEVILLE PROGRAM

Urges Development of Small Farm Areas

BONNEVILLE DAM, Ore. (AP)—President Roosevelt stood on this great federal power-navigation project today and asserted its cost would be returned many times over in improved navigation, cheaper electricity, and distribution of power to "hundreds of small communities within a great radius."

The first formal address of his west coast trip, he tied in the $51,000,000 Columbia Basin undertaking with his program for regional and national planning. He declared, too, that instead of spending half its income on armaments as some nations do, America was wiser in building such projects to give "more wealth, better living and greater happiness for our children."

The President also predicted through broader use of electric power a "wider geographical distribution of population" through the building up of smaller communities to prevent undue expansion of "over-large" cities with their high living costs and other disadvantages.

BALANCED BUDGET

BEACH CO-OP ACCUSES L. A.

Charges that Los Angeles county is "hogging" $30,000 a month allocated for Southern California self-help cooperatives were hurled today by members of the Newport Beach unit.

The "freezing-out" process, the Newport cooperative charged, is being engineered by the Los Angeles office of the state division of self-help cooperatives, forcing local cooperative workers on to the county relief rolls and spending the entire allocation in Los Angeles county.

The charges were made in a letter to the board of supervisors, which was asked to protest against present use of the funds and obtain some money for use of some 15 Orange county cooperatives which, the Newport group charged, are all in the same position.

The funds, allocated by the federal government, are administered by the state.

I'll Tell You By BOB BURNS

Enthusiasm is a pretty nice trait but it looks like when people are too easy to please, you kinda lose interest in 'em. Not long ago when Grandpa Snazzy came out to visit me, I thought I would be bored to death showin' him the sights of Hollywood because I just figured he would rave and gush about all the sights like everybody else but when I found that he wasn't interested in anything, I pret' near broke my neck tryin' to get him excited.

He yawned all day when I was showin' him through the movin' picture studio and that night when I took him down Hollywood boulevard to show him the neon signs, he went sound asleep. I knew he would at least get a big thrill out of seein' the ocean for the first time, so I drove down there while he was still asleep.

Just as the sun came up, grandpa began to stir. The tide had risen so that the front wheels of the car were standin' in the edge of the water. When grandpa looked out at the ocean and then he leaned over and saw the front wheels in the water, a wild look came in his eyes and he nudged me and said, "You better stop in at the first garage — you got a pretty bad leak in your radiator."

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY HITS JAPAN

52 NATIONS CONDEMN CHINA WAR

Tokyo Rushing Plans
For Continued War

GENEVA. (AP)—The League of Nations assembly condemned Japanese aerial bombardment of China cities today by a moment of dramatic, solemn silence.

There was no formal vote. The Aga Khan, delegate from India and newly-elected assembly president, interpreted as a vote of unanimous approval the silence that followed presentation of the Sino-Japanese advisory committee's resolution of condemnation to representatives of 52 nations.

The assembly acted swiftly on the resolution. It had been adopted yesterday by the League advisory group on which the United States is represented in a consultative capacity.

A letter accompanying the text of the measure, from Foreign Minister William Munters of Latvia, president of the 23-nation Sino-Japanese committee, explained its purpose was to give delegates not represented on the committee an opportunity to subscribe to it.

The brief condemnation of Japanese aerial tactics in the undeclared war in China, as approved by the advisory committee, expressed "profound distress at the loss of life caused to innocent civilians, including great numbers of women and children, as the result of such bombardment."

JAPAN PREPARES FOR LONG CONFLICT
Japan was placed on an unlimited war footing today, prepared for long conflict in the Far East.

The war ministry issued military ordinance "No. 41," indefinitely prolonging military service for all officers and men on active reserve lists.

This development came as military observers in North China gave their estimates that 600,000 Japanese troops were being moved to the front, as the result of the Sino-Japanese war.

The Russian ambassador left aboard a special Eurasia air liner for a direct flight to Moscow after raising Japanese warplanes had been driven off by Chinese pursuit planes before they could damage their military objectives.

Bogomoloff was flying the northwestern route and was expected to reach the Russian capital in four days for an important conference on the future Soviet course.

Russia has declared Japan's repeated bombardments of Nanking to be "illegal" and warned "Japan she would be held fully responsible for any injury to Soviet citizens or property. The Soviet warning was believed to be in response to a Chinese appeal for aid."

Leaving a note saying the pain of a lingering illness had become more than she could endure, Mrs. Elizabeth Day, 42, Sunset Beach, yesterday took refuge in suicidal death, according to Coroner Earl Abbey.

The mother of two small children, Mrs. Day apparently snuffed out her own life by inhaling illuminating gas while her children, 7 and 9 years of age, were at school and her husband, William Day, was at work in Los Angeles.

Her body was discovered at 2 p. m. by Lois Renaldi and Claudia Renaldi, who had come down from Los Angeles to visit her. Mrs. Day was found dead when they opened the door to the gas-filled room.

The woman's body was taken to Dixon Funeral home in Huntington Beach and later moved to DuBois mortuary at Alhambra. There will be no inquest.

CADDY KILLER SEEKS DEATH

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Golf Caddy John R. Walker recovered in a padded cell today from an attempt, Detective D. R. Patton said, to commit suicide after confessing the slaying of his common-law wife.

The 36-year-old prisoner chewed his wrists to open an artery and then dived headlong from the top bunk in his cell to the steel floor last night, Patton said.

The strange death try failed a few hours after an autopsy report showed that his common-law wife, Virginia Lee Darrow, 34, was killed by blows on the head with a blunt instrument during a drinking party in a Venice apartment last Thursday night.

Puzzle: Find the Third Car

Three cars crashed at Birch and Bishop streets yesterday afternoon. Two are pictured here. The third, assertedly stolen in Long Beach and driven by a Santa Ana high school youth, fled from the scene. A police search, coordinated by radio, found him less than 20 minutes later. The 15-year-old youth was reported traveling south on Birch when his car and one driven by Mrs. Ruth Holmes, 111 East Cubbon street, collided, with the Holmes car (overturned) spinning around and hitting one driven by Mrs. Fern E. Wilson, Inglewood. Two women were injured in the crash.

SOVIET ENVOY QUITS CHINA

Sudden Flight to Moscow Mystifies

NANKING. (AP)—Dimitri V. Bogomoloff, the Soviet ambassador to China, left suddenly for Moscow today on what was believed to be a vital mission affecting Russia's position in the Sino-Japanese war.

The Russian ambassador left aboard a special Eurasia air liner for a direct flight to Moscow after raising Japanese warplanes had been driven off by Chinese pursuit planes before they could damage their military objectives.

Bogomoloff was flying the northwestern route and was expected to reach the Russian capital in four days for an important conference on the future Soviet course.

Russia has declared Japan's repeated bombardments of Nanking to be "illegal" and warned "Japan she would be held fully responsible for any injury to Soviet citizens or property. The Soviet warning was believed to be in response to a Chinese appeal for aid."

Sleeping Beauty Nearing Death

CHICAGO. (AP)—Hope for the recovery of Patricia Maguire waned today as physicians ordered a second blood transfusion for the dark-haired girl whose futile 67-month fight against sleeping sickness has been aggravated by pneumonia. Dr. Eugene Traut said he hoped today's transfusion would build up her strength to permit an operation for an abdominal tumor.

The 32-year-old former stenographer, suffering from bronchial pneumonia for the second time in her five years and seven months illness, has been administered oxygen since yesterday.

Patricia was taken to the Presbyterian hospital Sunday, but the operation was postponed when pneumonia developed.

The suburban Oak Park sleeping beauty was given her first blood transfusion yesterday. Physicians said her condition since then has shown little change. A suburban River Forest policeman, Bernard Gerard, was the blood donor, and additional policemen were expected to be called today.

Nurse Mary Meath said Patricia "took a turn for the worse" during the night. Mrs. Peter Miley, who has attended her daughter constantly since she fell into a coma Feb. 14, 1932, left the hospital shortly before midnight.

Story of Snakes Finds Brother

A tale of a snake, told in The Journal, had resulted in reunion of two brothers, separated for nearly a half century. About 50 years ago Theodore Puchert came to the United States from his native Germany. Shortly afterward, his younger brother, Otto Reinhold Puchert, followed him. But he could not find his older brother. Years passed, and then in 1914 Otto Reinhold Puchert left Iowa and moved to Anaheim, where he makes his home at 307 Paulina street.

BLACK IGNORED BY BARRISTERS

KANSAS CITY. (AP)—A public session of the American Bar Association's resolutions committee ended today without a word of discussion of a southerner's proposal to investigate Justice Hugo L. Black.

The committee went into a closed session after hearing 73-year-old Robert Lee Tullis, former dean of the Louisiana State University law school, speak briefly for his proposal.

"What are the facts in this regard?" he demanded, referring to published reports of Black's membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

A relative in La Mesa, Calif., had sent the story about Puchert and his snakes to the family in Colorado. And the tale of snakes had a most happy and unexpected ending.

Letters went out in the mail today to the Colorado Pucherts, telling them that their relatives are here in Orange county.

Woman Crash Driver Freed

May Bell Johnson, San Juan Capistrano, was cleared of drunk driving charges in Laguna court today following an accident there last Wednesday when E. M. Bradley, Santa Ana plumber, suffered fractures of both legs.

The Johnson car was being operated carefully when it struck Bradley, who was crossing the street at the intersection of Pearl street and Coast boulevard, police reported. Judge C. C. Cravath dismissed the charges following testimony of police and a physician.

Anybody Seen a Barefooted Man?

Receipt of a mysterious package of shoes was reported today by Alfred Olivas, 2410 Evergreen street, who said someone had come into Martha's cafe on East Fourth street and handed him the package.

Police believed the shoes may belong to Robert Herman, 301 Fruit street, who reported theft of a pair yesterday. They now are looking for Herman.

YOUTH PAYS HIGH PRICE FOR JOYRIDE

2 Women Accident
Victims Recovering

By MILLARD BROWNE
A 15-year-old Santa Ana high school student was in his glory yesterday—out riding with three girl friends and showing them what a fine new car he had.

Today the glory's gone. He's been taken to the detention home and faces charges of hit-run driving and of stealing five autos, including the one he showed off yesterday. He no longer is registered as a junior at the high school.

TWO WOMEN HURT
The youth's momentary glory ended abruptly and unexpectedly just after noon yesterday when the car he later admitted having stolen and two others were involved in a spectacular accident at the corner of Birch and Bishop streets.

A woman and a girl were hurt in that accident, and officers first thought the injuries might prove serious. Subsequent treatment and examination, however, showed Mrs. Ruth Holmes and her daughter, Grace, 111 East Cubbon street, sustained only superficial injuries.

FIND LICENSE PLATE
When the young driver and his three feminine companions fled from the scene during the confusion which followed the accident, police just figured it was fear. They found a license plate which had been torn from his car in the crash, however, and investigated.

Less than three minutes after the stray plate was picked up, a teletype communication from Sacramento revealed it belonged to an auto that had been stolen from a used car lot in Long Beach early yesterday morning.

GIVES SOB
No longer was the youth's disappearance laid to fear of consequences from the accident. A patrol was sent out all over the neighborhood, and the car, minus its license plate, presently was picked up at the corner of Cubbon and Birch streets.

The youth and the three girls were hustled to the police station, and the humiliated girls readily told officers the boy had been in the accident. They sobbed as they denied any knowledge of the theft.

The boy then confessed to four previous auto thefts, police said, and he was immediately turned over to juvenile authorities.

COUNTY SALARY ACTION DUE

Adoption of the county's new salary ordinance was promised this afternoon by the board of supervisors. The ordinance, providing for salary raises totaling approximately $40,000 a year, has been rewritten twice in the past two weeks.

Also under consideration, but reportedly as far away from a decision as when it was first broached last spring, was the question of a county council to take over civil and advisory duties of the district attorney's office.

The question to be solved is whether one man could handle legal problems of county, school and special districts, and also write ordinances and advise the board of supervisors.

GET BIDS ON SCHOOL BONDS

The third time was a charm—and today bidders appeared for $100,000 in tax anticipation warrants issued by Fullerton High school district for a building program.

The Santa Ana First National bank and Kiser company of Los Angeles submitted bids, which were referred to the auditor's office for advice on which would cost the district the least money. Twice before the sale had been called, but no bidders appeared. Today it was found that publication of the notice was faulty, in that it called for sealed bids when the sale was intended to be a public sale; but the board of supervisors decided to go ahead anyway.

AWAIT AFL'S COMMAND TO START ACTION

Fight With C. I. O. Is Waged on Big Front

By KENNETH ADAMS
Ten thousand strong, organized labor in Orange county plunged headlong today into a powerful drive designed to bring the closed shop to several new unions.

As a direct result of this concerted action, pickets will be placed in front of from two to four Santa Ana meat markets tomorrow if American Federation of Labor attorneys believe this city's anti-labor ordinance can be successfully defied.

Seven or eight local retail stores will be placed on the "unfair" list if they continue to block unionization of clerks.

WHITE COLLAR UNION
Plasterers having trouble getting their contracts signed have been pledged the support of other organized unions.

The county and city employees' union began organization work in the "white-collar" division of courthouse employees, but at the same time charged them with being "upshish."

A contractor building an oil station on East First street is on the "don't patronize" list as the result of a movement to block construction of the station because imported CIO workmen are on the job.

Painters will put their union on a closed shop basis the first of the month.

CONFERENCE TODAY
These developments all came to light at a meeting of the Orange County Central Labor council last night.

Three local meat markets already are on the "unfair" list, and last night it was voted to investigate two more markets. Steve Davidson, business representative of the strong meat cutters union, went to Long Beach today for an important conference with A. F. of L. attorneys, who have been studying Santa Ana's anti-picketing ordinance for three days. Davidson

LABOR SEEKING NEW TEMPLE

A new drive for construction of a Labor temple building for organized labor in orange county was launched at the meeting of the central labor council last night.

On motion of Ben Milligan, President W. R. Pratt named a committee of three to start work at once to investigate possibility of constructing the new building, and to hold a meeting of the building work. On this committee he named Dan Kelly as chairman, Norris Stone and Steve Davidson.

Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor here are growing so rapidly that present quarters in the Moose hall near Fourth and Birch streets no longer are adequate, it was pointed out by delegates to the central council.

Sheppard to Go On Newscast

Congressman Harry Sheppard will be interviewed over KVOE tomorrow morning during The Journal's 8:30 a. m. news broadcast.

This will be Sheppard's first local radio appearance since one broadcast just following his election last year. Interviewed by Frank Orr, The Journal's newscaster, the congressman is expected to comment on the Sino-Japanese war and the Justice Black-Klux Klan controversy.

MONEY FOR MASSACRES

By BRADEN FINCH
What springs into your mind when you pick up a toy stamped "Made in Japan"?

Do you think: "This is cheap and attractive and I'll buy it?"

Or this: "The rulers of Japan have killed nearly 8000 defenseless men, women and children in massacres to terrify the Chinese civilian populace. The money I pay for this toy may go to help buy more bombs and shells to kill more non-combatants?"

If you think the latter, the chances are that you'll put the toy back on the counter without buying it.

MAY TRANSFER COUNTY WPA HEADQUARTERS TO LOS ANGELES

SPLIT FROM SAN DIEGO EXPECTED

Southern California To Be in Single Unit

Separation of Orange county from the present San Diego-Orange county WPA setup and establishment of the Southern California WPA division separate from Northern California loomed as a distinct probability today.

A change in the administrative form of the WPA in California is under consideration by national relief officials and an announcement concerning it is expected in a few days.

Dan Mulholland, chief of the WPA in Orange county, told The Journal he has heard of the proposed change and expects it to take place. The effect of the change would be to put Orange and all other Southern California counties under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles WPA office. Orange would be separated from the present San Diego-Orange county district, which is administered from San Diego.

Local Democrats have sought to have Orange county established as a separate district distinct from San Diego, but failed in the attempt.

It is proposed to extend the territory of Lieut. Col. Donald H. Connolly to include all the WPA in Southern California. Under the present setup, W. R. Lawson in San Francisco is head of the WPA in California with the exception of Los Angeles county, which has operated exclusively under Colonel Connolly, who also is a member of the regional staff which controls generally all WPA in the west.

If the change now contemplated is made, Connolly would have charge of all WPA in Southern California from San Bernardino and Ventura on the north and inland to and including San Bernardino county.

LABOR READY FOR S. A. 'WAR' said that if the attorneys' opinion is that the ordinance cannot prevent peaceful picketing, pickets will be stationed tomorrow.

Davidson said City Attorney Lew Blodgett informed him that peaceful picketing cannot be carried on in the city, and that this opinion was concurred in by Police Chief Floyd W. Howard.

PICKETS NOT MOLESTED
Despite these opinions, picketing will start if ruling of the A. F. of L. attorneys favors the attempt to picket the markets.

It was pointed out by union leaders that it is significant that picketing was carried out during the strike at the Irvine bean warehouse, despite the fact that the county has an anti-picketing law.

It was learned last night that for the first time the CIO and A. F. of L. clashed over a construction job, and on a motion picture at the labor meeting the contractor building the station on First street was placed on the "we don't patronize" list.

"COURTHOUSE GANG"
Labor leaders said this action was taken to help up construction work because all men on the job belong to the CIO and came here to work from out of the county.

Delegates from the county and city employees' union reported a membership of 137 last night, and announced that they are starting to "work on the courthouse gang."

A delegate said the county employees in the courthouse seem to think they are little better than other employees, but that he didn't think so.

Plasterers reported they are having some trouble with their organization work, and received pledges from the plumbers, painters, hod carriers and common laborers to back them up should they have need of assistance.

BRIDGES BATTLES COURT ACTION
LOS ANGELES. (P)—Harry Bridges, west coast C.I.O. director, fought in two ways today to gain control of the longshoremen here.

Members of the International Longshoremen's Association, A. F. of L. affiliate, sought in superior court a permanent injunction to prohibit the reorganization of the association into the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union under the C.I.O.

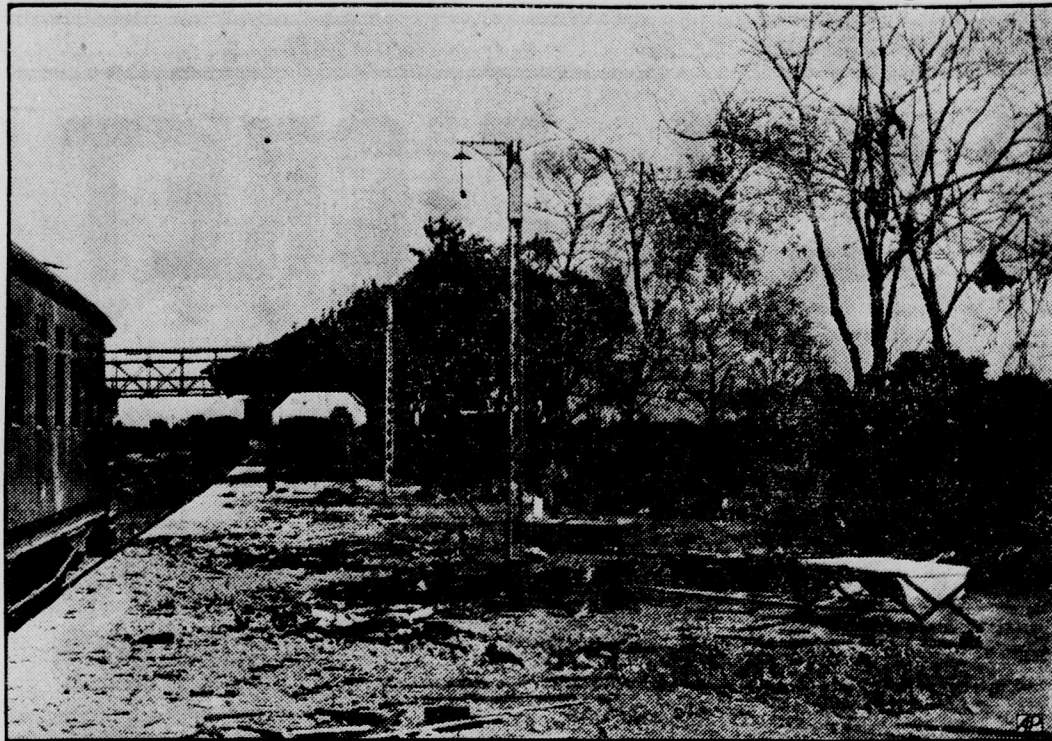

Bridges fought the injunction move and awaited action by the National Labor Relations Board on a petition which he said contained names of 2200 of the 2900 local longshoremen.

IO ACTS IN SAN FRANCISCO DISPUTE
LOS ANGELES. (P)—The C.I.O. took the offensive along the Pacific Coast today in its jurisdictional fight with the A. F. of L. over affiliation of warehousemen.

C.I.O. lawyers in principal coast cities sought criminal indictment of various A. F. of L. union members for reported illegal interference with C.I.O. organizing work.

Dead Scattered in Trees in Air Bombing

So terrific was the force of bombs dropped on hundreds of Chinese refugees at Sungkiang Station, 30 miles southwest of Shanghai that bodies, in whole or in part, were found suspended in the branches of nearby trees. Some can be seen in the upper right of this picture.

blitzed—in the event Russia should become involved in the Sino-Japanese war.

Reports were current in Tokyo that huge troop concentrations were massing along the Manchoukuo-Siberia border.

From Moscow official Soviet organs warned: "We do not want war, but we are always ready for war."

Meanwhile, Japanese armies claimed advances on all Chinese fronts. Ending a silence of several days on progress of its force in Southwest Hopei province, the Japanese army announced that an armored train had pushed 50 miles south of Peiping and 130 miles south of Paoingfu.

Nanking, Canton, two areas of Shanghai and six airdromes in east central China rocked under explosives dropped from Japanese bombing planes, a Japanese naval spokesman announced. He said airdromes at Kwanggh, Hangchow, Changin, Kashing, Tachiao-chang and Wuhu, all strategically located around the capital, had been bombed.

More than half of China's warplanes have been destroyed, and the Chinese face a great shortage of pilots and spare parts, he said.

NANKING BOMBING KILLS CHILDREN
NANKING. (P)—Japanese warplanes killed an undernourished number of civilians and spread many fires through the city of Wuhu, 30 miles southwest of this China capital, Chinese said, in a surprise bombing attack late today.

A number of foreigners had fled Nanking by boat to Wuhu, but it was believed they had not reached the city when the bombing attack occurred.

Fifteen Japanese bombers comprised the raiding party, and they dropped an estimated 100 bombs with lightning rapidity, inflicting heavy casualties and starting numerous fires in the Yangtze river city.

BRITISH PROTEST FOR THIRD TIME
LONDON. (P)—Britain has made a third representation to Japan against aerial bombardment of Chinese non-combatant centers.

The British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Robert Craigie, made the third declaration when he called upon the Japanese vice minister of foreign affairs and delivered British memoranda relating to the earlier protests.

Sir Robert called attention to the Japanese that bombs had struck the Central hospital at Nanking.

Judge Blasts Teaching of Evolution in Schoolroom

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (P)—Judge Challen W. Waychoff termed as "reprehensible" today the teaching that man ascended from a monkey.

He made his statement at the hearing on Mrs. Laura Elms Morris' attempt to regain her teacher's job in the one-room Bally country school.

The judge commented upon a former pupil's testimony that the teacher said "man was something like an ape."

"I would consider as reprehensible the teaching that man was ever a monkey, but not that he was once a lowly creature with his body probably covered with hair and forced to live in caves or in holes in the ground as protection against wild beasts, but always a man."

Everett Fuller, an eighth grade pupil in the school which Mrs. Morris taught for 11 years before her dismissal on charges of incompetence and cruelty last spring, had testified the teacher made the evolution statement in explaining a picture of a prehistoric man.

Mrs. Morris has denied the

Processions to Funerals May Be Outlawed

NEW YORK. (P)—Abolition of funeral processions as a step toward eliminating a common traffic problem was urged today before the convention of the American Cemetery Owners association.

Roy Eaton of Glendale, Calif., a director of the association, told some 400 members that the practice of such processions had been "outmoded" and that abolishing them "would afford right of free passage and privacy for bereaved families."

"Traffic problems in every city are forcing drastic changes," Eaton said. "Traffic commissions and police realize the impracticability of funeral processions that cause traffic jams."

looked around at the other fellows who couldn't get in, and felt better.

I knew it was the Pomona fair without even seeing a name or reading any literature, or even asking where I was going or how I got there. Ed Stinson's horses from Orange were there, and they were as sure as a compass. It was the Pomona fair. And, as usual, he brought home some ribbons.

If I don't get over my peeve I'll try again to get into the grandstand before the fair closes, Oct. 3. My credentials carry me right up to the closing date. In conclusion, if you want to see several county fairs at once, go to Pomona. And there is some mighty fine "hoss" racin' along with them.

Nazi Shirttails May Be Bobbed

BERLIN. (P)—The cry S-O-S—save our shirts—may be heard in Germany ere long.

The average German man's shirt is 37.4 inches long in front, 39.4 inches behind. Will it make much difference if a shirt is cut 2 inches shorter both ways?

A small matter, but since the Reich's shirt production is 30,000,000 a year, a saving of four inches of material on each shirt would mean 120,000,000 inches, or 3,333,333 yards or 1894 miles, almost two-thirds of the width of the United States.

So why not try it, the "Textil Zeitung" suggests.

charges and explained she was joking.

The Fuller boy said Mrs. Morris permitted her pupils to throw mudballs, paperwads and "even overshoes" in the classroom. But he added:

"She told us, 'You are only injuring yourselves. You're not hurting me as long as you don't make me the target.'"

Everett also said he had seen the teacher punish Eugene Jones, a 12-year-old pupil, with a paddle.

The middle-aged schoolmarm faced her former pupils with smiles as they testified against her in her fight to contest the school board's action on the ground it violated the new state teachers' tenure act.

BOARD STAND ON RUSSELL PROTESTED

Further assorted vegetables were flung at the board of supervisors for its attitude on the county coordinator squabble today, but the board remained adamant in its stand against paying Dr. Edward Lee Russell, nominal head of the juvenile committee, $3000 a year.

Two prominent physicians and a rancher again scored the board for its attitude in turning down the request of Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames for appointment of Dr. Russell.

Judge Ames, turned down two weeks ago by the board, last week threatened the group with a grand jury investigation in turning down "paying off of election debts" with appointments of this sort.

So far the juvenile committee, irked at the board's stand, has made no further recommendation. Supervisors have no power to appoint the coordinator; they merely fix the salary and Judge Ames makes the appointment.

Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth of Santa Ana, in a letter tinged with a great politeness, told the board he felt Dr. Russell is "exceptionally well qualified" for the post, and that it was a "distinct disappointment" to him that the board turned down the appointment.

SUGGESTS PETITION
"I realize," Dr. Hollingsworth said, "that the board at times prefers to back up some of its actions with petitions signed by large numbers of voters. If this is your desire, I should be most happy to go among the service clubs and other organizations and bring this about. I rather enjoy public speaking, anyway."

Dr. Hollingsworth was joined in the protest by Dr. Milo K. Tedstrom of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Marshburn, Orange rancher.

The board received the letters without comment, except for a remark by Supervisor Harry Riley that "I'm glad to see that Dr. Hollingsworth enjoys appearing at service clubs. Maybe he could fill in for me some time."

Protests against the board's action already had been registered by the Fourth district P-T. A. and the League of Women Voters.

HOME GRABBED BY DAUGHTER
Mrs. Margaret Fillmore, sister of Mary Miles Minter, former screen star, has seized possession of a $25,000 Laguna Beach home from her mother, she revealed today.

"Mrs. Shelby," said the daughter, "is on the outside looking in—just where I was up to now."

Previously the house at 1380 Hillcrest drive in Laguna, was occupied by Mrs. Shelby, against whom Mrs. Fillmore has pending a suit in Los Angeles to determine title to the property.

Mrs. Fillmore moved into the house Thursday, she revealed today. At that time her mother was in Los Angeles awaiting a verdict of a jury which returned a $20,000 judgment against Mrs. Shelby.

According to John Dumphy, caretaker, Mrs. Fillmore appeared at the home at 9 p. m. with another woman and two men, one of whom said he was a deputy sheriff and ordered Mrs. Shelby to give possession of the house to Mrs. Fillmore. She complied, leaving a large amount of clothing in the house.

"I won't do anything yet," she said, indicating she would await the outcome of the trial, set for Friday in Los Angeles, to determine ownership of the home.

Meanwhile Judge Parker Wood refused in Los Angeles to set aside the verdict of $20,000, given in Mrs. Fillmore's $48,750 suit for money she says her mother took from a safety deposit box.

SPAIN MOVE OF LEAGUE IS POSTPONED

GENEVA. (P)—France and Britain joined hands today to forestall League of Nations' action in the Spanish civil war, inferring that they wished first to get Premier Mussolini to agree to withdraw Italian volunteers from the Spanish insurgent army.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France announced this policy before the league committee on political questions which is considering Spain's appeal against what it charges is "Fascist invasion."

Referring to the proposed conversations by France, Britain and Italy, on the question of volunteers, Delbos said, "the moment has come when a clear declaration must be made, followed by effective action."

BELGIUM REPLACES SPAIN ON COUNCIL
GENEVA. (P)—Belgium was elected today as a non-permanent member of the League of Nations council to succeed Republican Spain.

Last week the league assembly rejected Spain's request for eligibility and re-election.

County May Pay For Old Injury

Payment of hospital bills for an injured county employee was being considered by the board of supervisors today.

The employee, Beverly Seeley, assistant road department foreman, was bruised about the back four years ago when a fire extinguisher struck him as he was climbing over a fence. Today it had been discovered that three vertebrae had been dislocated in his back, necessitating hospital treatment and a special brace.

No insurance can be collected, because Seeley did not report to a physician, but merely made out an accident report and believed he was only bruised.

A GARDEN HINT
The inquisitive woman was worrying the gardener. She asked a lot of silly questions.

"What steps do you take with the caterpillars?" she asked next. "Well, mum," said the exasperated gardener, "I takes half a dozen steps into our nearest field and turns the caterpillars around three times so that they gets giddy and don't know their way back."

Kidnap Victim and Secretary

Charles C. Ross, 71, (left) retired greeting-card manufacturer of Chicago, whose abduction on a lonely road was reported by his secretary, Miss Florence Freihaage, 45, (right). Officials feared today that Ross may have died from a heart attack following the kidnaping.

MYSTERY MAN SOUGHT IN KIDNAPING

CHICAGO. (P)—A hotel bellboy's meager description of a mysterious man in a gray cap offered the only promising clue today to the kidnapers of wealthy and aged Charles S. Ross.

The man talked to Ross in a Sycamore, Ill., hotel a few hours before the 72-year-old retired greeting card manufacturer was abducted on a highway a few miles west of Chicago Saturday night.

No demand for ransom had been received by the victim's distraught wife. The kidnapers' silence engendered a belief that Ross might have died from shock. He had suffered from heart disease.

The conversation between Ross and the man wearing a gray cap occurred at the Fargo hotel where the former had dined with his one-time secretary, Miss Florence Freihaage, 44.

Cecil Vandemere, 19-year-old bellboy, said the man approached him in the lobby and pointing at Ross asked:

"Do you know who that man is? He looks like a man I used to know."

Vandemere replied he did not know the elderly man. Later he told police he was unable to tell whether Ross and the stranger were acquainted.

Disaster Plan Meets Delay

Formation of an Orange county major disaster committee, to coordinate activities in event of an earthquake or flood, was held up today by the board of supervisors.

"It seems to me," said Supervisor John Mitchell, "that this group would take over some of the duties of the sheriff. The sheriff is empowered to get together all assistance necessary in case of an emergency. I think we'd better talk it over with the sheriff."

NEW WALNUT PEST THREATENS ORCHARDS IN COUNTY

HUSK MAGGOT
DISCOVERED IN GROVES

Belongs to Citrus Fly
Family, Says Tubbs

A new walnut pest in Orange county threatened damage to crops today.

Agricultural Commissioner D.
W. Tubbs announced discovery of the walnut husk maggot in groves in the northeastern part of the county.

While identification is not yet official, Tubbs said he is quite certain that the pest has been properly identified. Specimens have been sent to state laboratories for checking.

The walnut husk maggot belong to the same family as the citrus fly. It damages nuts by making the husks stick to the shell, making dark spots on the shell and in extreme cases darkening the meat below the spots.
It is the first time the pest has been found in this county, and it is believed to have come here by following native black walnuts down Brea canyon from Los Angeles county. The pest is not native to Orange county.

Rain Aids Giants

NEW YORK, (AP)—Rain washed the New York Giants one full game closer to the National league pennant today as the league leaders' doubleheader with the Boston
Bees was cancelled.

Bill Terry's men now need to win only two of their seven reno matter what the Chicago Cubs accomplish in their six remain-coupled with one Cub defeat will accomplish the same thing; so will two Cub defeats and no Giant

Smallest Woman Is Star Gymnast

CESE (C) O'DELL

Admirers of Cese O'Dell say she is the greatest woman gymnast in the world.

Miss O'Dell is not yet 20 years old. Said she recently:

"Exercise for women seems to have been lost sight of to a great extent. But many an ache and many an ill could be avoided through consistent and constant exercise."

"I was almost as tiny as I am now when I first began my life work. Nor was I strong physically. Now it is child's play for me to perform from sixty to a hundred giant swings with one hand while swinging from a rope in mid-air. I never fear lifts and haven't had so much as a cold in years. Let my sisters who complain of poor health exercise consistently and they will be well in both mind and body always."

Miss O'Dell is but one of three score of aerialists with Cole Bros. Circus coming to Santa Ana on Friday, Oct. 1.

While she executes her great "half flanges," all else on the program is brought to a halt. The Cole Bros. this season have 400 arctic artists, and the gorgeous spectacle of romance and knight-hood, "The Serenade of Spain," and a menagerie of 812 animals.

WPA SEEKING TO RESUME RAT PROGRAM

Campaign Started at Washington Office

Works Progress administration officials in Washington, D. C., began work today on an attempt to get re-approval of Santa Ana's rodent control project.

Correspondence between The Journal and Dallas Dort, acting director of the WPA project control division at Washington, revealed today that the division has started negotiations to determine whether certain types of rodent control projects may not be started.

BLOCKED MARCH 10

In a letter received by The Journal from Dort today, it was pointed out that Santa Ana's rodent control project was originally authorized by the government, but then suspended on March 10, 1937.

Current rulings of the bureau of the budget are to the effect that no further rodent control projects may be approved, Dort said, but his division is negotiating with that agency to determine whether certain types of rodent control projects may not be made exempt from this ruling.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

City officials here and merchants have sought to get the rodent control project started again, pointing out that rats cause immense property damage in the city and are a menace to health.

Dort's letter made no reference to the fact that while rodent control projects were halted because the work is on private property, other projects are carried out on private property without objection.

Orange Violin Maker Has Talk With Henry Ford

By MRS. RACHEL POWELL

ORANGE.—"Mr. Ford, meet Mr. Ford."

So spoke Clayton A. Perry, curator of Henry Ford's old timer's dance hall and museum of musical instruments, when W. F. Ford of Orange was introduced to the famous automobile manufacturer late this summer.

The local Ford considered himself most fortunate in meeting the automobile maker, as the latter had refused an audience the day previous with Herbert Hoover, on the plea of pressing business. The Orange resident spent an enjoyable 15 minutes talking about violins, their care and repair. For he is a maker of violins, repairs and adjusts them, and in fact originated two forms, each with a special use.

One original shape is slightly larger than the ordinary violin with rounding curves instead of sharp corners. In tone this instrument is slightly heavier than an ordinary violin, but still not as heavy as a viola.

The other is a practice violin which he calls the "rooming house specialty," for its notes cannot be heard outside the room if the door is closed. It is a mere skeleton of a violin, and has had a large demand in San Diego where he lived before coming to Orange.

Ford also owns a Stradivarius, one with a history. For many years its former owner played the famous violin in the gambling dens and dance halls of Nevada and Wyoming. Who he really was, no one found out, but he admitted buying the violin in Italy. Ford purchased it when the man was about to die.

Two Accused of Issuing Bad Checks

Two persons were booked in county jail on felonious fictitious check charges today.

Harry E. Gordon, 43, salesman, was arrested in Anaheim by Los Angeles police. Preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 5.

Frank C. Wood, 28, 535 West Chapman street, Orange, was arrested yesterday by Orange police on a similar count.

Deer Hunters Bag Lioness; to Collect $103

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Jack Lance and Charles Elwell didn't get the deer they were hunting for, but they're satisfied.

They bagged instead a 150-pound mountain lioness on the old Ridge Route near the summit. Now they have made application to collect $75 county and $30 state bounty for the animal.

Museum to Get Indian Exhibits

Now on display at various Santa Ana schools, several exhibits of Indian relics and other artifacts arranged as a WPA project are to be loaned to the Bowers museum, School Superintendent Frank A. Henderson announced following approval by the board of education last night.

'Get All You Can—But Don't Sell For Over $200'

Sale of the old sheet-iron shop building at Lathrop Junior High school last night was turned over to George Newcom, secretary of the board of education, with the stipulation that he "get as good a price as possible, just so it doesn't run over $200."

The board established the value of the building at "not to exceed $200," when it was learned property could be sold up to that price without advertising for bids.

Sam Talbert of the Talbert House-Moving company, already had offered $100, it was announced.

TYPEWRITER STOLEN

A $75 typewriter was stolen from Olive Grammar school over the week-end when an unknown burglar gained entrance to the building by jimmying a window. School attendants discovered yesterday.

L. A. Harbor Has Labor Shortage

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—With 3000 men working cargo on 36 vessels, there was a shortage of 700 longshoremen at the harbor today.

The motorship Europa, delayed a day by the labor shortage, was expected to sail today for North Europe with 80 passengers and 10,000 tons of Pacific coast products.

The rush of business at the harbor is due, ship operators said, because of the outbound freight diversions from San Francisco, blockaded by union labor.

Lathrop Building To Have Matron

Employment of a matron to help care for the Lathrop Junior High school building was approved by the board of education last night.

Mrs. Edna M. Beckman will be appointed for the position, according to Principal H. G. Nelson, who made the request.

Stanford wants the Dons to come back next year. And do you blame them? The Jaysee team put on a great show Saturday under the beating sun at Palo Alto, and it's competition which the freshmen want at the Farm.

The game was a reunion for some Dons. Bill Greshner and Dick Connell who played quarter and guard last year came over from Berkeley while Hal Mosiman and Fred Lentz made their way to the stadium from San Jose where they are schooling and playing football.

There's no rest for the wicked they say but although the Dons pleased Bill Cook considerably against the frosh, he had them going through their paces last night in a long drill for the Santa Monica just Friday night.

The Dons had a great time in San Francisco as a reward for their meritorious showing against the Papooses. They slept on a side track in their private Pullman car and were given free rein Saturday night and all day Sunday.

Nov. 19, a date still partially open to some football team which wants to meet Santa Ana, may be filled by Salinas Junior college. San Diego State frosh has an inside edge over the up-state eleven which is coached by Ed Adams, a former Santa Ana Jaysee end. However, if the Spartans can't make it it will be between the Salinas club or else the Arizone frosh who are anxious to start relations with the Jaysee.

If the Salinas team were to come down it would get 50 per cent of the gate, the same as any other college—the Dons not guaranteeing a thing.

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez has staged one of the most remarkable comebacks this year of any major league pitcher. Although he has lost 10 games, he just hopped into the 21 win class and over half of those wins are of the measly hit variety.

He has limited most of the teams he has faced this season from one hit to seven and don't be surprised if "Lefty" walks off with the low earned run average this year.

Those pesky Bees from Boston are on the rampage again. What did they do yesterday but do what the experts said they would do if the Giants didn't watch out. There's still a chance that the rejuvenated Cubs can make the grade and finish the season a step ahead of the pack.

A little practice on making points after touchdowns would hurt the Dons chances this year. So far they have chalked up four tallies and not one of them has been converted.

Every one in the Eastern Conference teams seems to have a better team than last year if the games played last week are

PADRES SEND HERBERT VS. BEAVERS

Liska and Posedel Portland Choice To Pitch Today

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—All the chips were down today as San Diego and Portland played the first game of the Pacific Coast baseball league title series.

The Padres planned to send Wally Herbert to the mound while either Ad Liska or Sailor Bill Posedel was Portland's choice.

In scheduled games Liska won 24, Posedel and Herbert 17. Although Portland barely managed to get into the playoff and San Diego finished third, the two teams won the first half of the Shaughnessy playoffs with four straight victories. The Padres ousted the first place Sacramento outfit and Portland battered Lefty O'Doul's San Francisco Seals.

The title and $5000 in prize money will be at stake in this week's series. Three games will be played in San Diego and four in Portland if that many are necessary. The winner gets the title and $3000 and the loser $2000. Portland won the title last year.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Joe Moore and Bill Lohrman, Giants—Moore smashed a homer and single, drove in two runs in 54 opening win over Bees; Lohrman checked Bees in nightcap with five hits, 3-1.

Stan Hack, Cubs—Led way to 7-4 victory over Reds with triple and two singles.

Chuck Klein, Phillies—Clouted two home runs and double, batted in four runs, in 11-3 route of Dodgers.

Buck Newsom and Jimmy Fox, Red Sox, and Luther Thomas, Athletics—Newsom gave A's five hits and fanned six while Fox drove in four runs with two four-baggers and single as Boston took first in four runs, in 6-0 Sox, 6-0, on five hits in six-inning second game.

Elden Auker, Tigers—Submarine Indians into 2-1 submission, allowing only seven hits.

any indication at all. Fullerton lost to Ventura and Citrus fell before Santa Monica and are expected to do the same before the rest of the league when the schedule comes around.

San Bernardino defeated Pasadena, 20-6, in the Rose Bowl and all the Dons for the first time won 12-6. Riverside won over Los Angeles Jaysee.

Semi-Pros Adopt Ruling Against Big League Raids

NEW YORK. (AP)—The national semi-pro baseball congress will make an effort next year to protect its members from "raids" by teams in organized baseball by means of contracts President Raymond Dumont announced today.

A national contract system was adopted during the past season to keep one sand-lot club from taking players from another. Next year it will be expanded so that players will not be permitted to transfer to regular professional clubs during the playing season without release from their managers.

BUDGE, VON CRAMM OPEN PLAY TODAY

BERKELEY. (AP)—Two amateurs, J. Donald Budge of Oakland, Cal., and Germany's Baron Gottfried von Cramm, will play their first-round matches today in the Pacific coast tennis championships.

Budge will oppose Henry Fullimette of San Francisco, and Von Cramm will play H. W. Bando, Berkeley Japanese.

England's pretty Kay Stammers, playing her first singles round yesterday, found a stubborn opponent in 17-year-old Anne Morgan of Berkeley, who finally succumbed, 8-6, 6-3, to Miss Stammers' experience and court strategy.

Anita Lizana, newly crowned United States women's champion, will enter the local picture today in a match with Margaret Stein, San Francisco. Jadwiga Jedrejowska of Poland will be a spectator. A foot injury will prevent her from competing.

The Japanese Davis Cup duo of Jiro Yamagishi and Fumitaro Nara came into the third round in singles and doubles yesterday.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

EXPECT 65,000 WILL SEE TROJANS VS. HUSKIES

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Southern California's ticket department guessed today that 65,000 fans would be in the Coliseum Saturday to see the Trojans and Washington's Huskies clash in a "crucial" football thriller.

Since 1933, Southern California has failed to win a Washington game, but the loss of three of last year's stars from the Husky backfield is stimulating local hopes.

"Granny" Lamsell, a reserve quarterback, is expected to see duty when Coach Howard Jones wants passes thrown over the Washington secondary.

BRUINS SHOWN AERIAL DEFENSE TACTICS

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A war that Stanford's passes clicked dangerously against Santa Clara, Coach Bill Spaulding schooled his U. C. L. A. grid squad in aerial defense today.

The Bruins, who take a holiday Saturday and play Stanford next week, are recovering from bruises sustained in defeat on Oregon last Friday night. Backfield Men Walt Schell and Hal Hirschorn are no longer troubled by shoulder injuries, they said.

REDLANDS NEXT OPPONENT FOR LOYOLA

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Ailing first stringers of the Loyola university football team were reported today as nearly ready for service Friday night against Redlands.

Jim Colee, fullback, has been out with a case of intestinal flu, while an assortment of injuries temporarily benched three tackles, Alec Proper, Bob Zwank and Bill McGee.

NAGURSKI BEATS LOPEZ AGAIN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Bronko Nagurski, 230, former University of Minnesota football star, defeated Vincent Lopez, 200, Los Angeles, in straight falls last night in what was billed as a world championship wrestling bout.

Nagurski took the first fall with a body slam in 26:04, and the second with a head lock in two minutes.

Both Nagurski and Lopez are claimants to the heavyweight wrestling crown.

DEAN DETTON FAILS TO SHOW UP

Roaring Pico James Del Kunkle in Semi-Windup

By FRANKLIN GUTHRIE

The Masked Avenger was just about unmasked last night, but thanks to an eleventh-hour change in the main fall bout he was still unknown to the mat world today.

Failing to land former Champion Dean Detton, who had had a public workout in Los Angeles in the morning, Promoter Tige Clinton secured the services of the well-known Hardy Kruskamp, former Ohio State footballer, to perform at the local Orange County Athletic club.

For want of suitable positions to get a good head hold on the masked one, the 260-pound Kruskamp decided it was time to see what could be done about removing the black headgear from the Avenger. Folling the attempts, the unknown villain started a thorough going over of Hardy's face, massaging his eyes and ears with a tape which was around his wrist.

The most unpopular men in the ring was the referee, who roused the ire of Hardy for the decision which gave the Avenger the first fall on a body press. Before that the hooded matador twice threw his opponent out of the square, and then turned on the same program he used last week by beating Hardy on the corner posts.

PICKS UP REFEREE

Coming out fast for the second fall of the fight, Kruskamp took several sharp words from the ref while he chased the Avenger, who was taking shelter from Kruskamp's blows outside the ropes. When he got a bit irked at the ref's attitude toward him, he decided it was high time that two could work better in the ring than three, and immediately picked him up and threatened to throw him out.

The Avenger took this opportunity to crash into both of them and getting his hand raised on a technical.

Little Del Kunkle had quite a tough going over with the big Mexican, Juan Olguivel-Pico. They dropped kicked one another around the ring for 31 minutes and 9 seconds before the Salt Lake City flash crushed the titan with a Japanese toe hold. An overhead drop fell Kunkle in 9:12 for the second fall, and then Pico body pressed the tiny mite for the winning fall.

The ref wasn't liked any more by the unpopular Mexican either. He was continually in an uproar over the tactics which Kunkle used against him. Kunkle's favorite trick of bouncing off the ropes and drop kicking his opponent around was deadly when used.

A fist fight between the two wrestlers broke out after the decision was issued, and all the power of the ref was needed to keep off the fighting loser.

HILL BEATS MCCLARY

Irishman Jack McClary took a beating at the hands of Vic Hill in the opening bout, with a finger and hair pulling contest being conducted by both parties concerned. Their favorite device was to wait to the tune of a tattoo on one arm.

Big Jack got all hot and bothered every time Hill started to spring off the ropes at him. Each time he ran to the other side and climbed out of danger.

During the Pico-Kunkle brawl the little fellow took pains to scare the big "un" at every opportunity, and had him roaring several times when he applied an arm lock or put on a leg-bending show.

Can He Help Cubs Catch Up With Giants?

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAP) PAPROCKI

When Ripper Collins cracked his right ankle there was considerable speculation on just how much the loss of their first sacker would affect the Chicago Cubs in their drive toward the pennant. At the time (Aug. 10) the Chicago team enjoyed a 6 1/2-game lead over the then second-place Giants.

Even the most pessimistic could hardly have figured that the Cubs would dissipate their lead inside of a month. But they did. The loss of Ripper Collins, undoubtedly, was largely responsible.

It took that injury to show how valuable Collins really was. His batting average, a mere .250, certainly was no indication. That figure hardly showed the great number of runs the Ripper's bat had driven in. Yet he was one of the Cub leaders in that most important department.

His work around first enhanced his value to the team. A fast, dependable fielder despite his lack of height, Collins inspired confidence in the hearts of the other infielders. They knew well that all they had to do was to toss the ball in the general direction of first. Collins would take care of it.

Shortly before the Ripper was injured, Manager Charlie Grimm said that Collins could help the Cubs if he wasn't hitting .200. His spirit kept the Cubs moving on an even keel.

The angle at which Collins cracked his leg, his ready smile and his sunny disposition made him a great favorite with the players as well as with the fans. He appeared to be easy going. Actually, he was not too much so. In his heart he was, and is, a fighter.

Grimm was forced to call Phil Cavarretta in from centerfield to the first string quarter job but still competition is keen behind him among Oliver McCarter, Larry Timken and Dick Saunders.

Santa Monica Is Next for Jaysee

Back into the swing of things after two days of taking it easy, the Santa Ana Jaysee Dons were scheduled to go into action this afternoon against the navy tars from the U. S. S. California, the eleven which mauled them last week in a tough scrimmage.

After arriving in town in the morning from their successful conquest of the Stanford freshmen, the Dons were sent through a light workout in the bowl. However, only about half the entire squad were present.

Week-end tilts among other Southern California Jaysees was noted well by the Red and Black who have hopes of retaining their Southern championship for another year.

(1) Santa Monica, their nearest enemy whom they joust with this week-end, routed little Citrus Junior college, a team which has always been the most belligerent against the locals. Provided the Owls are still the tough team they usually are, the Dons will have quite a problem on their hands Friday night.

(2) Upsetting all the dope, Riverside turned back Los Angeles Junior college in a ding-dong battle. The win now turns the Bengals into a more formidable enemy than the experts had predicted. A set of pony backs are said to be the Tiger mainstay.

(3) San Bernardino was the Eastern league surprise. Where Santa Ana fell on the Pasadena Bulldogs in the final half, 12-6, the Indians went so far as to beat the "unofficial 1936 champs" on their own stamping grounds in the Rose Bowl. The week previous the Indians beat off Glendale Jaysee, 12-0.

Ground plays which were not quite so successful against the Papooses as were their aerial tactics were being stressed once again in the bowl under Bill Cook. Defense on air raids has been one of the Dons weaknesses to date while the line has been exceptionally strong.

Blas Mercurio has developed into the first string quarter job but still competition is keen behind him among Oliver McCarter, Larry Timken and Dick Saunders.

McDonnell Set to Chuck for Valencias Tomorrow Night

Postponing the inevitable for yet another game, San Bernardino valenced the free-playing Anaheim Valencias last night, 4-1, but still had today the impossible task of overhauling the 3-1 series edge held by Manager Clair (String) McDonnell's nine.

One inning spoiled a night which might have ended the Shaughnessy championship series for the National Nightball league title. Relaxing just long enough for the Ponies to tally four runs during the hectic fourth inning, the Valencias must now turn to their home field tomorrow night to finish the killing.

Catcher Kelley opened the frame with an infield hit which he beat out at first. Shaddux fled out to center. Bill Sweet singled to left, advancing Kelley to second. Strano, batting for Ed Daley, doubled into right, which Webb booted, allowing three runs to score. Watson was safe on Lewitt Daley's error at short, scoring on Bob Fowler's double into left field. That was all for the inlanders, and beyond the first inning it was all for the Anaheim club.

Edmondson drew a free pass to first, but was forced at second on Wiseman's bunt. Floyd Montgomery singled to center and George Preble's right-field bingle brought in the former, but Montgomery was tagged out while attempting to score at the plate.

"String" McDonnell will chuck for the favored Valencias tomorrow night. He gambled with Wilbur Stinchfield last night, who gave up all four runs. Lyle Morse went in to pitch the final out of the fourth, and went the rest of the route holding the Ponies nearly hitless.

Fowler fanned four, while Morse and Stinchfield got one each.

FOOTE SHIFTS HAMAKER

Weaknesses which cropped up during Santa Ana High school's losing battle displayed against Whittier, Friday, were being carefully analyzed today by Head Man Bill Foote who sent his forces through a scrimmage today with Orange, the team with whom they formerly started the football season.

Eugene Hamaker, sparkling left halfback, was moved around to fullback yesterday afternoon in an inter-club drill by Foote. Here he will spell Bill Musick who found some of his old defensive trouble coming in on him again last week.

With the move, Melvin Baron, a newcomer to the Santa ranks, was shifted to left half who Foote believes will develop into a pretty fair passer. Harry Ashen who has been substituting for Don Warhurst at center was moved out to hold an end position yesterday and from all indications is doing all right by himself. He will work at both positions from now on.

Jack McClure still has several bruised ribs from the Whittier fracas but is expected to be back in suit before the Long Beach game this Friday afternoon there.

'BIG GAMES' SCHEDULED FOR COUNTRY'S FAN-ATICS

NEW YORK. (AP)—This is where the football fan really begins. Last week's appetizer was fair enough, although it hit a modern low for excitement.

This week the entire college contingent, including the Big Ten as a whole, the Big Three, the Big Six, and all the rest, don their helmets for a campaign that may set up new records for attendance, gate receipts and thrills before it winds up in early December.

By sections, here are the week's headline attractions:

MIDDLE WEST

Not even the crackling Big Ten duel between Ohio State and Purdue can take top billing away from the clash of Minnesota and Nebraska at Lincoln. The Cornhuskers may not be quite so formidable as a year ago but year in and year out, they are a handful for anybody. Minnesota gave evidence of terrific power last week in burying North Dakota State under a 69-7 score.

Ohio State spilled Texas Christian, 14-0, last week while Purdue, led by the irrepressible Cecil Isbell, tossed Butler for a 33-7 loss.

Their collision at Columbus may play a vital part in the conference championship race.

Michigan opens against Michigan State routine 19-0 victory over Wayne last week; Wisconsin, triumphant 32-0 over South Dakota State, plays Marquette, hard-pressed by Little Ripon, 14-0. Illinois, impressive in a 20-0 victory over tough Ohio university, plays DePaul.

Northeastern opens against Iowa State while Notre Dame's inaugural opponent, Drake, should give the Irish a good workout.

PROJECTS ARE PRAISED BY FDR

Development of Small Communities Urged

ada was rejected by the senate several years ago.

Favored a policy of the "widest use" of power at Bonneville, Grand Coulee and other federal dams.

Re-advocated better land use and conservation of water resources.

Denied his proposal would "set up all powerful authorities which would destroy state lines, take away local government and make what people call the totalitarian or authoritarian or some other kind of a dangerous national centralized control."

DENIES CLAIMS

"Most people realize," he said on the latter point, "that the exact opposite is the truth—that regional commissions will be far more closely in touch with the needs of all the localities and all the people in their respective regions than a system of plans which originate in the capital of the nation."

In other words, he added, the responsibility of the federal government for the welfare of its citizens "will not come from the top in the form of unplanned, hit-or-miss appropriations of money, but will progress to the national capital from the ground up from the communities and counties and states which lie within each of the logical geographical areas."

After predicting that every community in the Columbia basin would be wholly electrified in the not far distant future, he added:

"It is because I am thinking of the nation and the region 50 years from now that I venture the further prophecy that as time passes we will do everything in our power to encourage the building up of the smaller communities of the United States."

CITIES WEAK

"Today many people are beginning to realize that there is inherent weakness in cities which become too large and inherent strength in a wider geographical distribution of population."

"An over-large city inevitably meets problems caused by over-size. Real estate values and rents become too high; the time consumed in going from one's home to one's work and back again becomes excessive; congestion of streets and other transportation problems arise; truck gardens disappear because the backyard is too small; the cost of living of the average family rises far too high."

The President said there was "doubtless a reasonable balance in all of this and it is a balance which ought to be given more and more study."

No one would suggest, he said, that the great cities of Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane should stop their growth, but he added it was a fact that "they could grow unhealthily at the expense of all the smaller communities of which they form logical centers."

CITIES DEPENDENT

Their healthiest growth depends on a simultaneous healthy growth of every smaller community within a radius of hundreds of miles, he asserted.

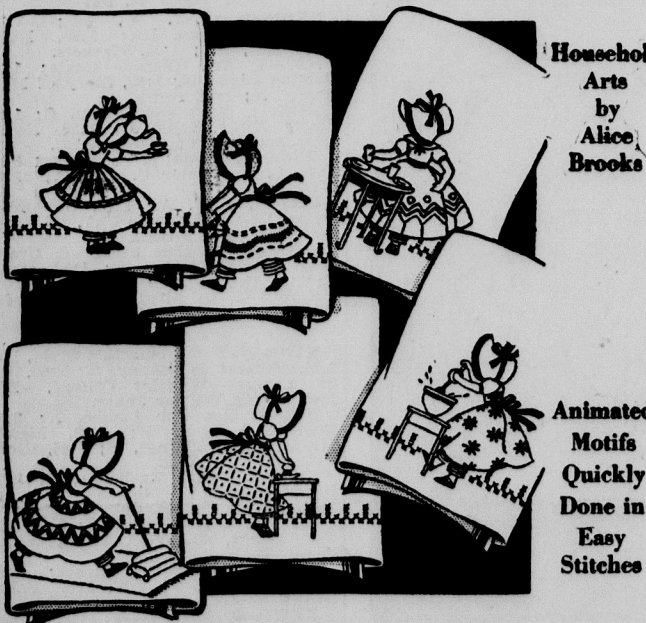

Declaring better land use and water conservation were matters of "national concern," he said if the government had the knowledge many years ago it has now and the willingness to act, it would have saved the taxpayers in the last few years "at least two billion dollars."

The President said Bonneville dam, 170 feet high and 1250 feet long would cost $51,000,000 with installation of initial power machinery.

Completed except for installing of this equipment, the dam and locks, he said, would enable shipping to use the Columbia river "much further inland than at present, and give an outlet to the enormously valuable agricultural and mineral products of Oregon and Washington and Idaho."

Built by army engineers, its generators ultimately will produce 580,000 horsepower of electricity. Power will be turned on in a few months.

New York Stocks

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK. (AP)—Specialties held the advancing limelight in today's stock market while some leaders were kept in the background by profit selling.

The list had its ups and downs throughout, but prices generally pointed upward. Gains running to 2 points at the opening were cancelled in many cases later. There were subsequent recoveries and several favorites climbed as much as 7 at the best.

The bond department was hesitant for a while. Rail loans came forward eventually and aided other divisions. Foreign markets were better and purchasing orders for American securities came in from abroad. There were also moderate offerings from this source.

Modern Aerial Bombing Far Different From World War

Japanese bombs raining down from the skies on Nanking from swift, sturdy planes today show how far military flying has advanced since the World War. Men have become much more efficient in killing each other.

For, by coincidence, this very week a man who took part in the first air raids over London, nearly a quarter of a century ago, reveals the other side of those terrific raids, telling how they were conducted and what were the objective of the bombers.

The writer was Capt. Ernst Lehmann, who commanded the ill-fated Hindenburg and who was killed when it burned. His book, "Zeppelin," has just been published.

In modern aerial warfare, the prime purpose is to blast a city from the face of the earth and in so doing disrupt the army.

In the World War, Captain Lehmann claimed there was no such intention. He wrote:

"Six thousand bombs, it was maintained, could start so many fires in London that it would be impossible to extinguish the gigantic conflagration. It was admitted that such a plan was feasible. But the thought of subjecting a defenseless civilian population, outside the actual war zone, to all the horrors of aerial warfare, and destroying priceless cultural treasures, was reason enough for all of us to reject the plan."

(A modern war lord who took that stand would be subject for the asylum.)

It was to keep troops at home, rather than to kill civilians, that the air raids were staged, Lehmann declared.

"The airships were ordered to drop explosive and incendiary bombs exclusively on points of strategic importance in Britain, such as docks, arsenals, munition factories, storehouses and railway stations, thereby causing the retention of considerable military forces at home."

Furthermore, according to the airship man, the Kaiser himself ordered that such places as Buckingham Palace—where his cousin, King George, lived—Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's cathedral and government buildings were under no circumstances to be bombed. (The fact that no bombs were dropped near such buildings bears out Lehmann's claim.)

Bright Lights Set New Appearance

NEW YORK. (American Wire) A new type of animated projection sign is expected to replace most of the spectacular electric signs in the Times Square area and on Broadway.

The apparatus comprises a 43 by 75-foot sign with a center screen, 24 by 30 feet, containing 4104 specially designed bulbs. An animated display of figures or lettering is projected on the screen in a unique manner. Ordinary animated films are projected against a miniature replica of the sign in a room inside the building. Light from the film touches off photoelectric cells on the miniature sign, transmitting the film image to the large outdoor sign, the two being connected by an intricate wiring system.

The sign was invented by a Stockholm scientist. The American patents

FRAGMENTS OF MAN'S EARLY HISTORY

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF RESEARCH.

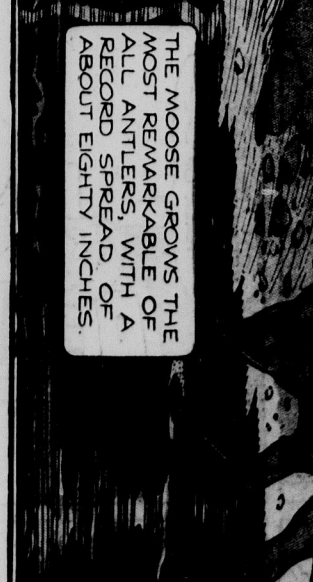

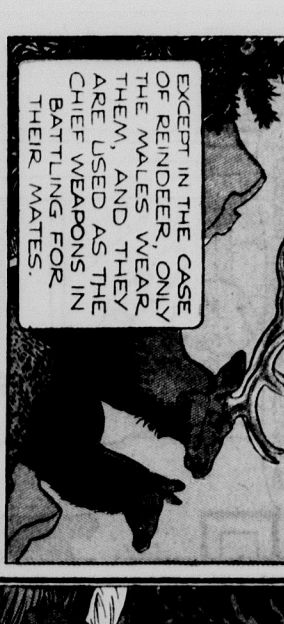

ONE hundred years ago, not a single fossil specimen of prehistoric man had been found and recognized as such—and belief was general that man's first ancestor lived about five thousand years ago. Now, scarcely a year passes that some new discovery does not push the age of man's ancestors back thousands of years.

Ebell Club Launches Year

The friendliness that Mrs. W. S. Thomson urged as the keynote of her presidential term in the Santa Ana Ebell society in her inauguration speech last June was happily combined with harmony in its greatest sense yesterday afternoon at the initial meeting of the year when a delightful musical program was presented for the entertainment of several hundred members and guests.

An ensemble of harp, piano, and whistling artists proved to be most enjoyable in their widely varied program of classical and semi-classical favorites. Led off by a brilliant harp-duet, paraphrasing the ever-popular "Roses of Picardy," with Miss Helene Reynolds and Miss Leona Hayes at the instruments, the group featured Miss Margaret McKee, known as the "bird voice of radio."

Her flute-like whistle charmed the audience in both horizontal renditions and her bird-imitations, and equally delightful was the excellent rendition of piano numbers given as an interlude by her accompanist, Howard Coombs, who was encored twice after his playing of the lovely concert arrangement of the "Flower Waltz" of De Lieb.

The program included nine groups of music, with the artists alternating their talents, and merging to climax the presentation in a highly individual arrangement of "At Dawning," with piano and both harps providing a delicate and harmonious obbligato for Miss McKee's "Bird Calls of Europe, Canada and America" which she gave in a charity concert tour in 112 cities several years ago with Madame Schumann-Heink.

Mrs. Aldric Worswick, new courtesy chairman for the year, and her committee had arranged a pleasant tea course to conclude the afternoon. A long table in the Peacock room, centered with the colorful zinnias and dahlias that were also used to decorate the auditorium stage, was presided over by Mrs. Sam Nau and Mrs. Paul Bailey.

Mingling with the members and their guests in an effort to carry out the friendship theme were the courtesy assistants, Mrs. Ray Adkinson, Mrs. Hugh Plumb, Mrs. Clarence Gustin, Mrs. Mark Lacy, Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch, Mrs. Fred Jayne, Mrs. J. W. McCormack, Mrs. Joe Lowell, Mrs. Howard Rapp, Mrs. Clarence Nisson, and Mrs. E. B. Sprague. Mrs. David Howell, assistant chairman, was unable to be present.

At the business session presided over earlier in the day by Mrs. Thomson, smartly attired in a black ensemble, new members were welcomed into the club, including:

Mrs. Leland Auer, Miss Mary Bowyer, Mrs. Lillian Becker, Mrs. Alvin Drumm, Miss Helen Glatney, Mrs. John H. Green, Mrs. Robert Hefner, Miss Oliver Lindemeyer, Mrs. R. T. McKee, Mrs. Lillian Overshiner, Mrs. Arthur Wade, Mrs. Lloyd Stanger, Mrs. R. A. Tiernan and Mrs. T. W. West.

Announcement was made of one of the year's biggest entertainment programs, the appearance of Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, former U. S. minister to Denmark. Mrs. Rohde will lecture on "The Scandinavian Cooperative Movement" when she is presented to Ebell members and the public at the high school auditorium Nov. 28.

WELFARE GROUP PLANS COMING AFFAIRS

For an afternoon of sewing for charity, preceded by a business program, the welfare society of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah met in the home of Miss Minnie Besser, 2042 North Ross street.

Plans were made for a parish dinner to be held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 12, in the parish hall. Final plans for the all-day meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of Orange county to be held in the parish hall Oct. 26 were completed.

Mrs. Kenneth Dawson presided at the tea table which was centered with bouquets of fall flowers. Those present were Mrs. S. P. Freeman and her house guest Mrs. A. B. Forbes, Mrs. Ethel Hart, Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. H. G. Blissett, Mrs. Kenneth Dawson, Mrs. F. H. Finney, Mrs. Frank Lelandson, Mrs. G. A. Ambell, Miss Susan Cloyne, and Mrs. A. B. Byler of Hermosa Beach.

NICKEYS HOLD FAMILY PICNIC

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey, 519 Bush street, entertained a group of relatives on Sunday with a picnic luncheon on the cliffs at Laguna Beach.

Those who enjoyed the pleasant outing with the Nickys were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Blurton and three children, Mrs. A. B. Blurton, Mrs. Lucille Satterlee and daughter, Frances, from Dixon, Ill.

Your Baby Book

By EDNA WILSON

Although the baby kingdom seems to be fairly quiet this week, still we have a good bit of news for you. We have new babies to introduce, some birthday parties to describe, and some old friends to remind you of.

First of all there's a birthday party. She may be a little old for six-year age limit, but we can't resist telling you about the cute party Saturday afternoon that celebrated little Megan Kipf's eighth birthday. Her mother, Mrs. Oscar Kipf, gave the party in the family home on Freeman street.

All sorts of bright colors were used for decorations, because Mrs. Kipf had followed an autumn motif in decorating. There were table centerpieces of fall leaves, and baskets of dahlias and zinnias all around. The youngsters played games outdoors during the afternoon and pretty little prizes were won by Shirley Parsons, Jane Coombs, and Aileen Faulkner, lucky kiddies that they were.

Later the whole crowd tripped into the dining room for the customary ice cream and birthday cake. There was quite a bit of informal entertaining during the party, and the little group which enjoyed the merry afternoon included Mary Jo Coombs and her sister Janet, Mary Oake, Charlotte Phinney, Patty Lou White, Peggy Smith, Lucille Moore, Katherine Davis, Marian Walker, Barbara Miller, Shirley Parsons, Norma Dray, Mary Anne Woodward, Aileen Faulkner, and the birthday child's sister Nina.

We wanted a few sidelights about Megan since this seemed to be her last chance for the baby book—she's really getting to be quite a young lady. Megan has light brown hair, brown eyes, and is pretty well satisfied with spending her time in the third grade at Wilson. Her sister is 10 years old and in the sixth grade. Both of the young ladies play together a lot, and find the greatest fun in dancing together. (They both take ballet and tap lessons.)

Little Miss Bobby Jo Wilson, five-year-old daughter of the Russell Wilsons, with whom you are already well acquainted, is quite the pride and joy of her family—especially this week. You see, she was just presented with a gorgeous pin by the Rev. Perry F. Schroek of the First Congregational church for going to her Sunday school class 51 out of the 52 times. She's the granddaughter of Mayor Rowland, you know.

She may have a mere seven weeks chalked up to her credit, but young Viola Jean Ellis, has had a pretty exciting life already. You see she arrived a little bit early and weighed something like four pounds, eight-and-a-half ounces at the time. So the first three weeks of her visit here were spent in an incubator at St. Joseph's hospital. Now she's really getting fat and sassy, though, and tips the scales at all of seven-and-a-half pounds.

Her Mom and Dad haven't quite decided yet, but they think that Viola Jean is going to be a blonde with blue eyes. They already have made up their minds that she looks like Mama. About two weeks ago Viola Jean was introduced to the motion picture camera. Her folks are amateur movie fans, and they dressed her up in her best bib and tucker. In her blue basinet lined with pink satin, she made a pretty little picture for the color film.

That camera wasn't resting before Viola Jean appeared, either, because Viola has a big sister, Shirley Anne, who will be three on December 28. The movie camera was a welcome home gift from Daddy Ellis when Mom and Shirley returned from a long trip to Washington early this summer. Shirley is an active little mite.

with fluffy blonde hair that folks say is a trait of Daddy's family. Her favorite plaything is a stream-lined "trike," but she will play on occasion with fire engines, airplanes, and cars. But dolls are strictly out! She talks and surprises her parents with her big words and ideas, and she panics them on occasion with her mounful, "Oh me, Oh my!" Until recently Shirley couldn't sound her "ts," so she greeted friends with, "Heggo." Another trick of hers is substituting "S" for "P." You figure out your own examples.

Shirley Anne and Viola Jean are the darling kiddies of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ellis of Orange.

Last week we promised to tell you about the "Admiral." His official name is Thomas Lee Tissue, but he's just over a month old. But the odd part about Thomas is that his Dad has never seen him. You see, the Admiral was born in the Long Beach Naval hospital. (His mother, incidentally, is the former Miss Zola Weir of Santa Ana, and Mama and the Admiral are staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Weir at 1821 Spurgeon street.) Dad Earl Lee Tissue is expecting a quick transfer to San Diego from the Philadelphia navy yard where he works now. That will be his first visit with his son.

The Admiral is quite an engaging young man himself. He has very dark and bright blue eyes (like the sea on a lovely day), and a (one) dimple. His hair is not prominent as yet—putting it mildly.

There's another birthday party we mustn't forget. We told you about it yesterday in The Journal, but because the honor guest is just what we're celebrating her sixth birthday and all we'll tell you some more details. The honor guest was Arlene Klein and Mama and Auntie gave the party. There were dainty yellow and white decorations all over the place. Of course there were plenty of flowers, but the part that really interested each young guest was a long yellow streamer that led from a yellow box in the center of the table to his own place. At the end of the ribbon was a favor, and the kiddies had lots of fun opening their own gifts, because no two were alike. Another cause of excitement was the huge birthday cake, which was frosted with white icing and decorated with yellow rosebuds and six yellow candles.

Through our assistant society something-or-other we heard all about Master Lowell Clyde Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Forrest Roberts, 1605 West Tenth street. He was born on Labor Day, Sept. 6. According to his mother, he rules the roost away out there on West Tenth street and has a 15-year-old brother and an 11-year-old sis who are very devoted to him. He has brown hair, but they're not quite sure just what color his eyes will be. They may be blue now, but they often change after three weeks of time. He resembles his Daddy, and also looks like big brother did when he was a baby.

Another little cherub is Charles Willoughby Dayton who appeared for the first time at St. Joseph's hospital on September 9—Admission day. He's the very young son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Dayton of Long Beach and the youngest grandson of Mrs. Sally Powell at 117 El Portal. He has brownish hair—not quite brunette. As a matter of fact it is a very indeterminate shade as yet. He's a chunky youngster and getting rounder every day. He weighed seven pounds, eleven ounces at birth and has gained every day since.

Charles Willoughby has an older brother too. His name is John Gordon, Jr., and he's practically an old hand, 'cause he had his second birthday August 1, John Gordon is very blond and has sky-blue eyes. He races around a great deal and makes it pretty hard for grandma to keep up with him. He chatters a lot and is just beginning to put words together. John likes to see what makes the wheels go round, and spends his spare time with all sorts of wheeled toys. He's attracted most to the train which passes close to Grandma's house rather often. That, according to John Gordon, is Grandma's train, while the other some distance away is always just "the Santa Fe."

Before we finish with these youngsters, it might be wise to tell you about their Momma and Poppa. She was Virginia Powell, a graduate of Santa Ana schools and the University of California at Berkeley. She taught in the Congregational school at Hermosillo, Mexico, for four years, then married John G. Dayton in Arizona. They lived in Michigan for several years and happily report their satisfaction at being in California again—even if it is Long Beach instead of Santa Ana.

That's about all for today, and I see the "Finis" sign at the end of another chapter in the Baby Book.

Dolly-Ho!

Fifty-Fifty Officers Named

Following election of officers of Fifty-Fifty dancing and social club last night, members of the exclusive organization are looking forward to the inauguration dinner and ball which it has been their custom to hold each year at the Norconian club in October.

Wayne Harrison was named president of the men's division of Fifty-Fifty in a meeting held at the home of Joseph Winder, 1250 South Ross street. Correspondingly Mrs. Harrison was named head of the women's organization which met for a social evening at the L. A. West home on Victoria drive, with Mrs. Hume West as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Burns were elected secretaries of the two groups, and directors for the whole include Dr. E. F. Bruning, Dr. Stanley Norton, John Fleming of Long Beach, James Tuma of Whittier, and Everett Lutz of Garden Grove.

Retiring officers include Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell as presidents; Mrs. Riley Huber and Bill Queale of Fullerton as secretaries, and Verlin Anderson, Ralph Culp, Herbert Maland, and Buddy Forster as directors.

Bridge was enjoyed by the ladies after their election and after they had presented Mrs. Ralph Culp (Leonora Fernandez) with the traditional bride's gift of a lovely blanket. Prizes for the evening's contract went to Mrs. Buddy Forster and Mrs. Stanley Norton. Affairs at both homes were followed by buffet suppers.

QUILL PEN CLUB VIEWS ALASKA CURIOS

With their fall season well underway, members of the Quill Pen club enjoyed the hospitality of the Frank Was home at 617 Orange avenue last evening for their regular meeting. Mrs. Blanche Brown was hostess for the evening.

The first part of the evening was spent in inspecting the ivory, pictures and other objects brought back from Alaska by Mrs. Was' son, Frank, on his recent trip on the S. S. Stranger with the Sea Scouts. Later the group had a business session, during which it was decided to have the Oct. 11 meeting of the group with Mrs. Virginia Fritcher.

During the reading of manuscripts, Mrs. Annette Smith read an article, "Autumnal Emotions;" Mrs. Ethel Macurda read a short-short story, "Night Alone;" Mrs. Amy Viaw read the first of a new series called the "Pabots-Pabots" stories. Other selections included Mrs. Miriam Smith's poem, "The Society Page;" Mrs. Marah Adams' poem, "Repulsed," and Mrs. Lucy Marshall's "To My Hearth Fire."

Members present for the meeting and to enjoy the dessert course later were the Mesdames Marah Adams, Blanche Brown, Virginia Fritcher, Maude Wiley, Eleanor Harnois, Lucy Marshall, Annette Smith, Miriam Smith, Amy Viaw, Gertrude Winchester, Frances Thompson, Ethel Macurda, Margaret Was and Miss Verna Wells.

BETTY VOICE SURPRISED WITH PARTY

When Miss Betty Vorce arrived home last evening she was happily surprised to find a group of six of her intimate friends gathered there to compliment her on her birthday anniversary.

Her mother, Mrs. Carl H. Vorce, was hostess during the evening, with a dinner beginning the festivities. A centerpiece of zinnias and flanked by yellow candles was used on the table. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards and opening gifts for Miss Vorce.

Those present included Miss Norma Wilson, Miss Irene Ross, Miss Dorothy Preble, Miss Norma Kenny, Miss Ellen Nelson and Miss Eleanor Winer.

OPEN BOARD MEETING

The Willard P. T. A. executive board will hold an open meeting in room 105 of the school beginning at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 29.

brother too. His name is John Gordon, Jr., and he's practically an old hand, 'cause he had his second birthday August 1, John Gordon is very blond and has sky-blue eyes. He races around a great deal and makes it pretty hard for grandma to keep up with him. He chatters a lot and is just beginning to put words together. John likes to see what makes the wheels go round, and spends his spare time with all sorts of wheeled toys. He's attracted most to the train which passes close to Grandma's house rather often. That, according to John Gordon, is Grandma's train, while the other some distance away is always just "the Santa Fe."

Before we finish with these youngsters, it might be wise to tell you about their Momma and Poppa. She was Virginia Powell, a graduate of Santa Ana schools and the University of California at Berkeley. She taught in the Congregational school at Hermosillo, Mexico, for four years, then married John G. Dayton in Arizona. They lived in Michigan for several years and happily report their satisfaction at being in California again—even if it is Long Beach instead of Santa Ana.

That's about all for today, and I see the "Finis" sign at the end of another chapter in the Baby Book.

Dolly-Ho!

Local Couple Are Wed In Las Vegas

Of great interest to Santa Ana young people is the news of impressive rites conducted in the Methodist Episcopal church of Las Vegas, Nev., Friday when Miss Jewel Thebeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Thebeau of Las Vegas, became the bride of Wesley Nelson Hauck of Santa Ana.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Thomas Thebeau, and entered the church on his arm. She wore an eggshell lace gown with a matching tiny hat from which a large veil fell becomingly. She carried a sheaf of talisman roses.

Miss Rita Hauck of Santa Ana, sister of the bride-groom, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a grey and purple frock with a corsage of gardenias. Miss Pauline Honrath of Las Vegas in a pastel net dress and Miss Jean Davenport of San Francisco, formerly of Santa Ana, in blue and white net were bridesmaids. Both carried ambassador roses.

Robert Huntsaker of Santa Ana was best man, while the Rev. Ford Gilbert, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. Mrs. Fred Wilson was at the organ, playing a short organ prelude and then both wedding marches.

Following the services, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, 619 South Fifth street, Las Vegas, after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Lake Arrowhead. They will make their home in Santa Ana where the groom is in business for himself.

The bride is a graduate of Santa Ana High school and attended the Cummed School of Expression. The groom is the son of Gordon Hauck, 628 South Ross street, and is a graduate of Santa Ana High school.

DINNER CLUB HOSTESSED AT BEACH

Mrs. Jean Metzgar and Mrs. Helen Heil were joint hostesses over the week-end to their dinner bridge club, when they entertained at the Balboa Beach home of the latter.

Lovely autumn-toned flowers seen from the E. B. Sprague and Terry Stephens' gardens were used to decorate the rooms where dinner was served and bridge played. Prizes went to Mrs. E. S. Tradewell and Terry Stephens.

Guests of the two hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brownridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Tradewell, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Skirvin, and Terry E. Stephens.

LOCAL YOUTHS PLEDGED AT BERKELEY

Among pledges to fraternities at the University of California at Berkeley this year announced yesterday in a campus release are three Santa Anans.

They include Walter Nelson, pledged Kappa Alpha; Rede Petersmeyer, Delta Upsilon; and Dick Shepard, Theta Xi. Women's sororities have not yet released their pledge lists.

SAN FRANCISCANS ENTERTAINED

Dr. Russ Bullock of San Francisco joined his wife here last week. She had been the guest of his sister's family, Dr. and Mrs. Milton McMurray, 2029 Flower street, part of a month. Dr. Bullock spent part of the week with Mrs. W. B. Snow and other relatives.

The McMurrays took their guests to the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona this week. Following the day at the fair, they went to Padua Hills for dinner and to view the valley at night.

DINNER PARTY FETES BERKNER

Postponed because of the delayed arrival of his son-in-law and daughter, the dinner party Sunday night, complimenting E. A. Berkner on his birthday was still a very happy affair.

The party was held in the Berkner home at 2341 Riverside drive, and those present included Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Holmes (Marjorie Berkner) of Visalia, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Carstensen, Mr. and Mrs. Berkner and Miss Fern Berkner.

W. A. WESTS ARE DINNER HOSTS

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West had the pleasure of receiving an intimate little group of friends for dinner Sunday evening, with informal conversation following the delicious menu.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Castler, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mize, Mrs. Mary Walters, and Mrs. Guy Gardner.

DANCE PUPIL STARTS TOUR

Miss Lorraine Seavy of Orange, a pupil of the Vera Getty dance studios here, will leave Friday for a six-months' dance tour which will include engagements in Canada and the East.

She will be traveling with the Cushman troupe of Los Angeles, and will be featured in a tap dance to classical music. Her first engagement will be in Santa Barbara Friday evening.

PAGING PLEASANT COMPANY

Here's a coiffure, designed by Dumas, that's very sleek and trim. Its single swirl of curls, which falls from a horizontal part at the top of the head, unrolls into a page-boy effect across the nape of the neck.

Mary Stoddard "Sixteen" Is Worried About Nervous, Drinking Habits of Her Mother

Seldom has a letter distressed me as much as one I received in the morning mail from a 16-year-old girl. So many times I've advised girls that mother is their best friend.

But in this particular instance, the girl who writes is more qualified to be the mother of her own mother, in the present crisis, at least:

Dear Miss Stoddard: You've

helped so many, and you've always advised girls that their best friend was mother, that I now turn to you in my trouble. My problem concerns a girl's best friend, her mother.

She is terribly nervous and has been drinking quite a bit. I can never bring my friends to the house because it is terribly embarrassing to me.

I have a few nice dresses and blouses and I keep them as neat and clean as I possibly can. She takes them when she is in that condition and I come home and find them either torn or soiled.

Also she takes my lunch money or any other small change available. I sometimes have to go without my lunch because I have only a limited allowance. I cannot hide my things because she tears the house down until she finds them.

There are many other things that go on that I couldn't relate to anyone. None of my friends have to go through anything like that. Sometimes I feel just as though I "hate" my mother. I know in my own heart I love her more than anything and I don't know what I'd do if anything happened to her.

I'm terribly unhappy because I can't have a clean and happy home like other girls. I'm torn the only unhappy one in the family. Please try and help me do the best thing. Thank you. SIXTEEN.

Your sympathy and understanding is not misplaced, dear Sixteen, because your mother is not normal. She is to be pitied, helped, and properly supervised, rather than condemned. It is sad, indeed, that because of her ill health she is acting precisely as any person, man or woman, does when "under the influence." Physicians and nurses who deal with alcoholics will tell you that this stimulant will only increase nervous state, mentally and physically.

If your mother isn't given the proper medical care, she's apt to become worse as time goes on and less responsible. This problem is to big for one of your years to cope with. Do you attend school or are you employed? Isn't there some older member of your family? If so that is the one to assume the responsibility of your mother. Any money should be placed beyond her reach even though you must hide it on your person night and day. Have you consulted your family physician about your mother's state of health? She is probably in that period of life when she needs special medical care or she might become wholly mentally irresponsible.

Will you write me personally and tell me more of the details? I can much better advise you in this way and can perhaps refer you to the proper persons who will be instrumental in straightening your mother out.

VISITS AT BERKELEY

Miss Mary Bowyer is spending the last week of her vacation as the guest of Miss Mary Porter in Berkeley. Miss Porter, who recently resigned as secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., is taking special work at the University of California and living in International house.

Miss Bowyer will return to her duties as chief librarian in the junior branch of the city library on Monday, Oct. 11.

Guests Given Suki Yaki Dinner

One of the more unusual of travel sidelights that has been Miss Ruth Rowland's pleasure with which to regale her Santa Ana friends is the "Suki Yaki" dinner which she learned how to prepare during her last year's residence in Honolulu and her ensuing travels in the Orient. Since her return last month to resume her teaching in Santa Ana schools, she has served it to several intimate little groups, and over the past week delighted a group of her associates with a similar affair.

Guests were greeted by Miss Rowland in her striking Japanese kimono costume, and by her niece Mrs. Russell Wilson and the latter's little daughter, Bobbie Jo, both also kimonoed.

The quaint oriental ritual of dinner preparation entails the cooking and serving of the meal in the same room, on small tables and burners. Carrying out the same idea, many of the guests seated themselves in Japanese fashion along with their competent hostess, and chose to eat with chopsticks from the numerous little dishes with which they were served.

Later the east gate way to the west for contract bridge, for which Miss Rowland awarded lovely Japanese prints to each one present, in their order of high scoring. Guests enjoying the delightful affair in the liveliest room of its artistic Japanese flower arrangements were Mrs. John Tessman, Mrs. Edith Thatcher, Mrs. Clyde Cook, and the Misses Anna Trythall, Mary Schofield, Ruth Frothingham, Mildred Frazier, Thelma Thomas, Lavinia Scott, Mabel Whiting, Edith Pithee, Genevieve Humiston, and Mrs. Wilson and Bobbie Jo.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED AT SHOWER

Lovely gifts for her new home were presented to Mrs. Garel Edwards (Dorothy Arnold) late last week when two hostesses, Mrs. Eugene Edwards and Mrs. Don C. Edwards joined in complimenting her with a post-nuptial shower in the latter's home, 928 North Baker street.

A great many of the gifts were Spode dishes in the home guests' chosen "Wildflower" pattern. Yellow and white pompon chrysanthemums and pale yellow marigolds in a cloud of baby's breath carried out a yellow and white color scheme. A corsage of talisman roses was presented to the recent bride by the co-hostesses.

A yellow and white parasol held streamers which led to a table laden with gifts. In a niche over the fireplace, a large doll dressed in yellow crepe paper presided over the party. Refreshments, still in the dainty color scheme, were served at the small tables spread with white linens.

The group enjoyed an evening of bridge, and three bubble bowls wrapped in yellow cellophane and ribbon were presented to the holders of high scores. Prize winners were Mrs. James Braden, Mrs. Louise Briggs, and Mrs. Walter Dilley.

Included among the guests were Miss Hazel Belle Comer, Miss Mary Grace Beard, and the Mesdames Mildred Matthews, J. E. Browning, Jim Musick, Frances Harvey, W. H. Briggs, Dafford Braden, Don Walker, Ray Lancaster, Walter Dilley, Bessie Manning, Louise Briggs, and Oma Walker, mother of the honor guest.

SEVEN TABLES IN PLAY AT SECTION PARTY

Seven tables of bridge were in play Saturday evening when three couples collaborated as hosts and hostesses for the initial meeting of the evening social section of the Woman's club held in the Louise McCowan home, 2223 Bush street.

Acting as hosts and hostesses during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. McCowan, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Watkins, and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Eggert. The McCowan home was decorated with baskets of fall flowers and dainty refreshments were served at midnight.

Mexican figures added a colorful touch to the bridge tables and prizes for the evening's play went to R. E. McCurney for high score in contract and Arthur Eklund for high in auction.

Guests at the affair included Mrs. Blanch Hackelton and the Mesdames and Mesdames Charles Clark, G. N. Coon, Arthur Eklund, E. J. Grothier, Francis Jacoby, E. P. Ladd, G. B. Linsenbard, E. G. Maier, R. E. McCurney, C. R. Walter, Earl M. Waycott, Raymond A. McMahon and F. A. Martin and the hosts and hostesses.

BIRTHSPOT OF PRESIDENTS... Strange as it seems, a circle with a 50-mile radius drawn around the town of HadenSVille, Va., will encompass the birthplace of eight Presidents of the United States. Washington, Monroe, Madison, Taylor, Jefferson, Tyler, W. H. Harrison and Wilson were the presidents born within this area.

BACKWARD PUNT... Back in punt formation on University of California's 39-yard line, in 1935, Santa Clara Quarterback Joe Kelly attempted a "coffin corner" kick. The results of the punt brought him more fame than if he had kicked the pigskin out on the half-inch line. Coming to earth on the line of scrimmage the ball took a bad bounce, headed back into Santa Clara territory, and came to a stop on the Broncos' 36-yard line—a 25-yard punt backward!

Judge Stump

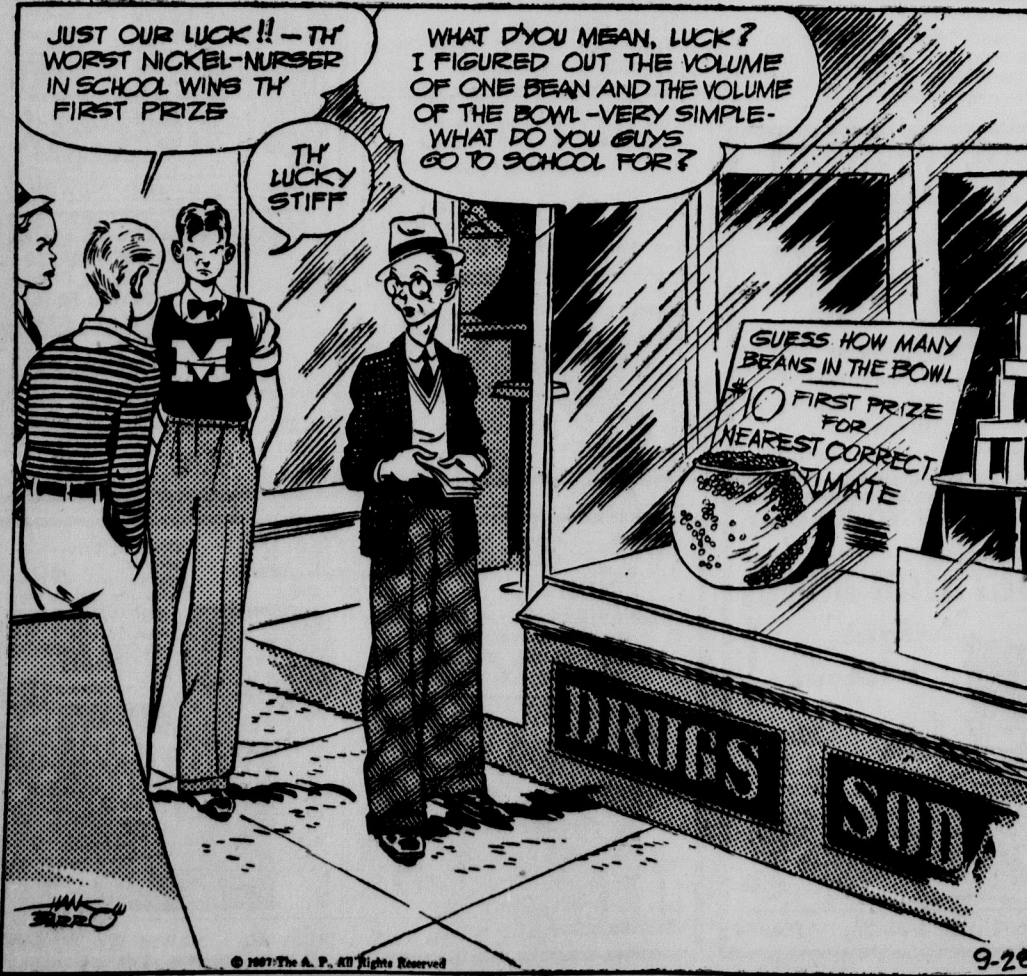

Dear Judge: Do you suppose the tobacco makers will ever start advertising cigarettes that are "heard on your nerves"? T. P. E. They won't have to. The way they keep adding more cellophane jackets to every package, folks don't have to read the ads to know they're hard on the nerves. I know three fellows who've already suffered nervous breakdowns trying to get the packages open. STUMP.

TSK! TSK! "But, my dear—I haven't said a word!" "No, but you've been listening in a most aggravating manner, and I won't stand it!"—London Evening News.

War and Peace

The thunder of war is crashing through the orient. Untold slaughter is in the offing. Guns are booming their deep note of horror as humanity faces a new crisis.

Stay out! Stay out! Is our thought as the full meaning of a world-tragedy becomes more and more evident.

Since the beginning of this century Europe has killed 25,000,000 people. The total killed during the World war was almost twice the number killed in Europe during the entire period of a thousand years preceding!

And Europe doesn't seem to have had enough. She is better armed than before the great war.

War on a new and gigantic scale—war on all sides of us. History does not know anything, even in her bloodiest pages, that can compare with what our own generation has witnessed.

During this century the storm of war is sweeping the world. No effort or sacrifice is too great if it will succeed in averting the gigantic tragedy of involving our nation in another war.

Here are some figures to think about. They were assembled under the direction of Pitirim A. Sorokin, eminent sociologist. They include nine major European countries.

Century	War	Percentage
Ending	Casualties	Combatants Killed
1200 A. D.	29,940	2.5
1300 "	68,440	2.9
1400 "	169,929	4.6
1500 "	364,220	5.7
1600 "	896,185	5.9
1700 "	3,711,080	15.7
1800 "	4,505,990	14.6
1900 "	3,625,627	16.3
1901-1925	22,035,150	38.9

Total—35,406,571

It will be noted that the last figure includes casualties up to the year 1925 only. Added to our century would be the enormous death toll of the Japanese-Chinese war and the Spanish revolution.

China wants the U. S. to intervene as a signatory of the 9-power treaty. China must have pasted the scraps of that treaty together.

100 Per Cent Community Spirit

When a community wants some civic improvement with all its heart, it usually finds a way to get that improvement.

This is the lesson which Costa Mesa can teach any of its bigger sisters who bemoan a lack of municipal assets.

Not long ago the state promised to erect a $10,000 fire station at the mesa town on condition that the lot was furnished free of all indebtedness.

Since Costa Mesa is not an incorporated city, the money needed could not be raised by taxation.

So the chamber of commerce, through two of its women members, Mrs. Hugh Clark and Mrs. H. C. Lounsbury, is making a house-to-house canvass for voluntary subscriptions. They have raised $284 so far.

Any town which tackles its problems in that fashion has a real future. That's community spirit!

When Justice Black gets back, the President apparently will be in the West inspecting dams and not in the White House, as predicted, saying them.

The State Lottery Issue

The question of state lotteries is sweeping England again, since the crown prosecutor cracked down on the sale of Irish sweepstakes tickets.

Now Englanders have changed from the subject of Edward and Wally to that of a state lottery. There are some who say gambling is instinctive, and that if the government does not regulate it and control it, someone else will get the profits. Gambling cannot be eradicated, and it might as well be done honestly, with profit to the government, they say.

The issue has often been debated in California.

But California people have decided, wisely, we believe, that gambling has nothing good to be said for it; that a state lottery would cause graft among public officials; and that citizens are subjected to enough anti-social influences without having the government actively promoting one of them.

Mussolini and Hitler say their thoughts are bent on preventing war. Not bent, boys. Just warped.

The Pleasing Side

Whatever its conclusion with relation to the personnel of the supreme court, the storm that is raging around the head of Justice Hugo Black is having one good effect.

It is crystallizing a widespread and deep feeling of the people of the United States against any organization based on intolerance and bigotry.

This manifestation is as heartening as it is timely. The cliques and clans on which dictators build their violent minorities, later to take control, feed and grow on intolerance and bigotry.

The people of this nation are giving evidence that such groups are unwelcome in this land where personal liberty is the possession most greatly prized.

John L. Lewis never sits down himself, however.

Point of Personal Liberty

The E. O. I. A. M. Y. P. M. is making strides. Some day we may all be members of it.

In case you haven't yet been urged to join, or may not even know what it is, let it be known that the initials stand for Eat Oysters In Any Month You Please Movement.

Those bold spirits back of the movement lay the necessity for it to some bilious or dyspeptic Roman far back in the days of Rome's glory, who counseled his listeners that oysters should only be eaten in certain months.

Blessings on the E. O. I. A. M. Y. P. M. When we want oysters we want 'em.

FAIR Enough

Rattling the Skeletons in Nazi Closet

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK.—The state visit of the Italian Duce to the German Fuehrer cannot fail to remind outsiders of certain points of conflict and insult contained in their respective programs. These matters will be tactfully avoided by the two rivals for the title of greatest man in the world, and no German or Italian will be guilty of the ill-mannered, nor to say the suicidal folly, of stressing them at this time.

Mussolini will hear many quotations from the philosophy of the Fuehrer during his tour, but it may be flatly predicted that these gems will not include that portion of the Nazi belief which deals with the preservation of the Aryan purity.

"Every Aryan hero should marry only a blonde Aryan woman with blue, wide-open eyes, a long oval face, a pink and white sash skin, a narrow nose and a small mouth," says the Nazi instruction to young men suffering from the sweet insanity. "A blonde, blue-eyed man must marry no brunette, no Mediterranean type woman with short legs, black hair, hooked nose, full lips, a large mouth and an inclination to plumpness."

FIGHTING WORDS

Now these he fighting words to Benito Mussolini, for he is the leader of many brunette Mediterranean types with short legs and an inclination to plumpness, and the hooked nose is the pride of his Romans. In fact, the Roman bugle or snarl is known the world over for the elbow in the same about four inches from the tip. It is a big, prominent comb like the wheelbase of a rocking-horse, and is worn by many of the Duce's best people as the badge of a proud and haughty aristocracy. So this gratuitous bust on the Roman beaver by the Nazi regime, although intended strictly for the guidance of the blue-eyed Aryans cannot be interpreted otherwise than a gratuitous bust on the Roman beaver.

As for the brunette, short-legged Mediterranean types, including no few with an inclination to plumpness, the slur is equally inescapable. The entire south of the Duce's country is peopled with the brunette, Mediterranean types with short legs, and the ladies especially in these days of speed-up propaganda under Mussolini's orders, run to plumpness, not to say fat, in a very short time.

After a brunette, short-legged, Mediterranean type Italian lady has given four or five little ballads to babies' corps of the invincible legions and, maybe a couple of future mothers of further ballads to the Duce's reserve of military broodstock, it is not only ungentlemanly but it insults to the motherhood of Italy to refer slightly to the fact that she has taken on weight and width. Indeed, it is not generally known that Herr Hitler himself has discovered a new method for keeping down the weight and maintaining the youthful lines of blonde, Aryan women with blue, wide-open eyes, after they have made their contribution to his invincible legions.

It seems to be the lot of ladies everywhere to tend to plumpness as the years advance, and the children increase, and the German hausfrau herself has traditionally been represented as a meek, gentle and altogether amiable person completely resigned to outside measurements.

HOW ABOUT BACHELORS?

On the other hand, we know that Mussolini has often expressed a low opinion of bachelors and has taxed them heavily as slackers for avoiding their patriotic manly duty to take some deserving lady off the marriage market and produce ballads for his invincible legions. A prolific man himself, he has set a conspicuous example to his followers or victims, as you prefer to call them, and he even went through the formality of getting married a few years ago so as to impart to this phase of his leadership the blessing of religious regularity.

Thus he squarely played the game under the rule by which, in harmonious understanding with the clergy, souls are produced for the church and bodies for the invincible legions. The progeny, it need not be observed, are not consulted as to whether they wish to be involved in the arrangement.

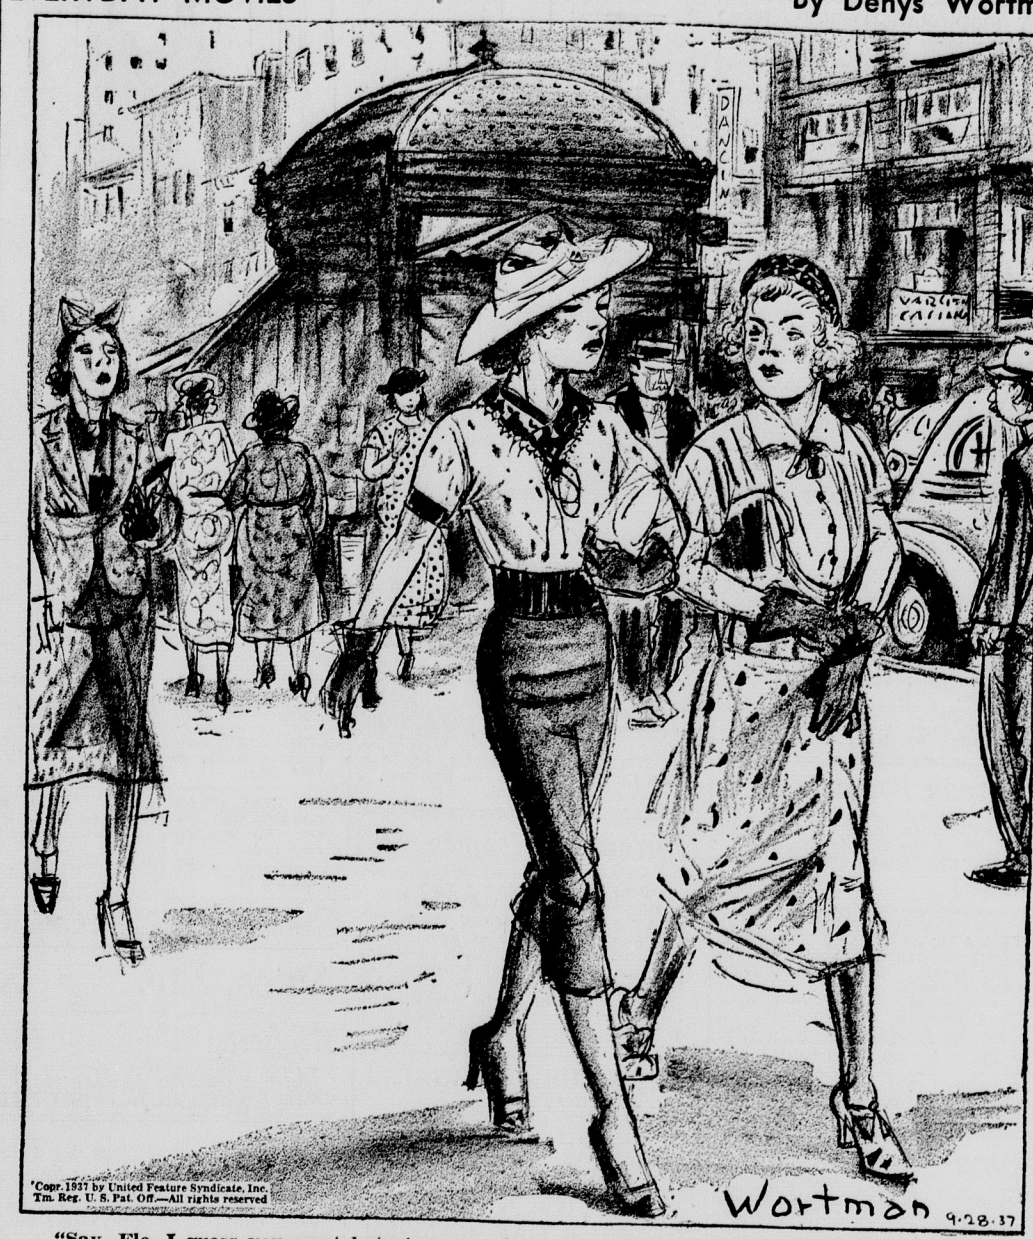

Yes, if Hitler's regime has spoken ill of the Duce's brunette, short-legged Mediterranean types, the Duce himself has said plenty back about bachelors, of whom der Fuehrer is the most prominent in the world at present. So if anyone cracks wise about the Mediterranean while the Duce is in Germany, and he cracks back with his well-known opinion of manliness, there will be no going for your Rome-Berlin axis in a swirl of insult. Unhappily nobody will.

Sir Lewis Morris was complaining to Oscar Wilde about the fact that the press was so neglectful of his poetic efforts. "It is a complete conspiracy of silence," he said. "What ought I to do about it, Oscar?"

Bright Moments

Cecil Rhodes, the famous Englishman who did so much to make South Africa a habitable land, and whose enterprise stands today as a monument to his work there, was philanthropically inclined as well, and put much money into worthy enterprises which required capital. But, in a sense, he did not give too liberally—he did not throw money away as some have done. He was once approached by a gentleman, who asked for help on a public undertaking. Rhodes replied was characteristic: "Just to what extent will anyone profit by this? Pure philanthropy is all very well, but philanthropy, plus five per cent, is a great deal better."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Those who talk with Cordell Hull while no diplomats are around report that his eyes snap and he even drops the word "Japan."

Inside fact is that Hull is ready to go further than any other member of the Cabinet in maintaining a stiff policy toward the Japanese. He was absent from Washington, attending the American Legion convention in New York, when the American ambassador left Nanking to escape the Japanese air raid. Otherwise he would not have left. When Hull returned, the Ambassador went back to the embassy.

The key to Hull's policy in the Far East can be found in his position toward the Versailles treaty. He was a devout Woodrow Wilson League-of-Nations man. Then a member of congress Hull came out with Wilson in the three-power alliance by which the United States tied itself up with France and Great Britain to keep the peace of Europe.

So firm were his Wilsonian convictions that he found it hard to forgive Ambassador William C. Bullitt for his senate testimony against the Versailles treaty—even after Bullitt was appointed Hull's personal assistant.

It was lost in all the other news from the American Legion convention, but Hull made an extremely important summary of his Far Eastern policy during his speech at National Commander Colmery's dinner.

"We have made it clear," he said, "that while we are resolved by every means to avoid war, we are not and cannot be indifferent to policies that lead to war, or to instances of international lawlessness that disturb the peace."

This means all that you read between the lines—namely that the exponent of peace and a very patient man, believes that the saturation point of patience may be reached in the Far East.

HULL VS. ROOSEVELT
Roosevelt and Hull have very similar views on the Far East, with the exception of one phase.

Remember that Roosevelt is a great naval enthusiast, spent eight years under Woodrow Wilson building a big navy, has pushed the navy as never before during the past four years. To a considerable extent he shares the navy's viewpoint on the Far East.

That viewpoint is: If Japan seizes China, she may become a serious threat to a white standard of living across the Pacific.

The difference between Hull and Roosevelt is that the President feels public opinion in the United States may not be ready for a stiff attitude toward Japan. He doesn't want to get out on a limb ahead of public sentiment.

Mr. Hull, on the other hand, recently told one of his advisers: "You can always depend upon the Japanese to play their cards wrong as far as public opinion is concerned."

In view of the bombing of Nanking, it looks as if he was right.

DEPARTMENT REVERSE
The man who ordered Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson to leave his embassy in Nanking for the safety of a U. S. gun boat in the Yangtze river was 80-year-old Acting Secretary Walton Moore.

Moore's chief nightmare in life is American neutrality. He even went so far as to issue an order barring passports to American doctors and nurses aiding the Loyalist government in Spain.

Never before in history had the United States barred missions of mercy to foreign countries, and when Hull woke up to this he countermanded Moore's order.

Last week when Hull came back from his American Legion speech, he did the same regarding the American Ambassador to China.

Since Catholics are rare among the colored race, a lot of people suspect that the choice of Smallwood was no accident.

Not—Fifteen minutes after Black's appointment was announced, his office called the clerk of the Supreme Court to ask how much Black would be allowed for the hire of clerks, stenographers, what office space he would have, etc.

Originally, congress allotted $3600 to each Justice for a law clerk, in addition to a stenographic clerk. But now, Justices who want to pay $5000 to one trained assistant may do so. They make their own arrangements with the Chief Justice.

Negro messengers, however, are assigned from the court staff.

H. G. V., Newark, N. J.—Abe Lincoln Mahoney, of Newark, does only voluntary publicity work for President Green of the A. P. of L.

retaining his regular newspaper connection with the Times and Herald in Washington. J. J. W., Cherrylade, Va.—Albert Levitt, who is suing Justice Black to show cause why he should be a member of the Supreme Court, was a misfit in the Virgin Islands, but he has had a distinguished career in other fields.

He staged a crusading campaign for governor of Connecticut on an Independent Republican ticket, which scared old line politicians out of their wits.

He also had a varied and brilliant career as a professor, having taught such divergent subjects as philosophy at Columbia and Colgate, and medical jurisprudence at John Hopkins. He was also an advocate in the codification of the Nationality Laws of the U. S., and a war chaplain in the Meuse-Argonne and Oise-Aisne sectors, where he was wounded and gassed.

Levitt's wife, Elsie Mary Hill, also had a distinguished career, having been one of the pioneer suffragists of America. She was imprisoned in Boston and Washington in 1918-19 for suffragist activities, helped organize the National Women's party, ran for the Connecticut legislature and for congress. She is one of the leaders of the Lucy Stone league and her daughter bears the hyphenated name of "Hill-Levitt" after both.

Miss Hill (Mrs. Levitt) was active in organizing woman's suffrage in the Virgin Islands, a factor which contributed to the retirement of her husband as judge. Levitt was no longer with the Department of Justice when he brought the suit against Black. He was asked to resign on July 1, and this took effect about Aug. 10. (Copyright, 1937)

OVERDUE
"A nice sort of welcome!" said the father visiting his son at boarding school. "I am hardly out of the train when you ask me for money."

"Well, dad, you must admit the train was 20 minutes late."—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent, fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

TOWNSEND PLAN

To the Editor: Would some good Townsendite please tell me what they are working for. The doctor had A. L. Johnson draw up a bill known in congress as H. R. 4199 and the doctor pronounced it perfect. He sent Mr. Johnson to Washington as his legislative representative, and we Townsendites were going places.

But the good doctor decided it was his duty to go out and fight the administration and so he went on the radio, platform and press lambasting our President and everyone in general who did not think just as he did regarding the action taken at the convention to keep out of politics, and using the old folks' money they were giving him to help put this bill into effect.

The good doctor knew his actions would kill his bill as far as the administration was concerned. Now the Townsend organization sent Harry Sheppard to congress as their representative to fight for the Townsend bill (not Dr. Townsend) and put it into law as soon as possible and he has and is doing that very thing.

Of course, they had to drop the doctor's name from the bill or it would have received no consideration. That is where the doctor proved to me that he was betraying the old folks. If he had been sincere he would have told those congressmen to drop his name if they thought best, but stay with the bill and put it over. But no, that rule or ruin spirit possesses him and if he could not have his name on this bill it must not be put into law. It is pitiful to read Mr. Robb's articles, not a ray of hope that it may be passed. But to hear the truth come out Thursday night at the high school and hear Harry Sheppard and he may help you understand some of the things you ought to know. He surely is entitled to a hearing at least.

What Other Editors Say

(Christian Science Monitor)

For years Iowa has sung to the world about it tall corn. Not only that, but it has proved its case. Gov. Nelson G. Kirschner of Iowa personally defeated Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin recently in a private contest, and Iowa triumphed over Illinois with a stalk 18 feet 5 1/2 inches tall. Now comes the amazing news from Arkansas that George Osborne, a tenant farmer of Sileam Springs, has grown a stalk measuring 19 feet 2 inches in height—on so-called sub-marginal land. Tillers of the fertile black jumbo soil of Iowa may exclaim, "Fertilizer!" and wonder "upon what meat doth this out Caesar feed that he is grown so great?"

Iowans may comfort themselves with the reflection that it is not height of stalk that counts but the size and number of ears, and in this Iowa leads the states. Besides, when it comes to stalks, hasn't Mrs. Regina Jais grown in her penthouse garden at 1016 Fifth avenue, New York City, corn that is 17 stories high?

IT'S ODD But It's Science

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—The hen which started the dispute about which came first—chickens or eggs—and why does a chicken cross the road now gives science a new one.

"Why do chicken feathers have twigs?"

The twinning of these feathers and its possible usefulness in helping to a better understanding of biology are reported by Dr. Frank R. Lillie, of the University of Chicago, in the Collecting Net.

HONEST, AM WAS JUST SORE ABOUT A BIOLOGICAL STUDY!

The technical name of the twin is the "after feather." Most of the feathers of chickens have these twins. They lie underneath the outer feather which is their other half. There are no twins for tail feathers, flight feathers or, as a rule, hackles.

The twin feather is due to an actual division of a single center, from which only one feather might be expected to grow. But after the division into two centers, neither feather grows alone from its own center. Half of it grows from its own center, the other half from its twin's center.

McINTYRE

NEW YORK.—The metropolis has fishermen aplenty but scarcely any hunters. Save those of the big game variety, such as the Carl Akeley and T. d. and K. e. m. Roosevelt. Sporting goods houses find little interest in exhibits of guns and hunting paraphernalia.

But their fishing sections are always crowded and invariably the largest departments. None knows the why of the lack of interest in shooting, for there is good hunting in the near-by Adirondacks and in Maine, and there are even deer in remote sections of Long Island.

Fishing is about the only out-of-door sport indulged by actors. Some of the better fish tales come out of the smoking rooms of the Lambs and Players. Cartoonists are also enthusiastic anglers—such as Webster, Ding, Crosby and McManis. Nearly all leave town for the trout season.

Bob Ripley is also a skilled fisherman and has cast his line in more different waters of the world than any other living fisherman. And, of course, President Roosevelt has given great impetus to fishing by his many jaunts after the finny tribe.

Manhattan, too, a man who knows tells me, is the most picnic-conscious area in the world. There is scarcely a family that does not enjoy a picnic lunch or dinner at least once a week during favorable seasons. The picnic, as much as apartment living, is responsible for the number of delicatessen shops.

Save for Frank Case of the Algonquin and Boomer of the Waldorf, few New York hotel men are widely known any more. There was a time when famous hotel names had a following in the manner of stage and movie stars. George Boldt of the Waldorf, Simeon Ford of Grand Central, James Woods of the Belmont, John Bowman of the Biltmore group, Copeland Townsend of the Majestic, and more. But hotels grew too large and intricate for personal contacts with guests. Today there are assistant managers who greet by states. One for California, Nevada and Oregon. Another for Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, and so on.

Scotch devotion: We have had a Scottish chauffeur two years, a polite, tactful fellow with a delightful burr. His wife was also agreeably employed, and they were buying and furnishing a cottage on Long Island. Not long ago he received a letter from his 89-year-old mother in Scotland, who closed with a plaintive: "I long to see you once more." Two weeks later the couple sailed. He is going to remain with his mother for the rest of her days.

There grew up an increasing number of back-yard cafes this summer. Mostly in rear of houses in tenement districts on the East Side with a surround of whitewash fence, perhaps an old alianthus tree, a carpet of gravel and a coat of "atmosphere." They are in charge of Jeans, Gastons and Fredericks and are reached through smelly kitchens. There are no menus, the prices are stiff and the food no better than the average table d'hôte save the meats are cooked in wine sauce and each customer served with crepes Suzette—the least expensive but most expensively listed dessert. Back-yard cafes have done much to thin sidewalk cafe business.

When I have an urge to go perfectly grandiose dining out I order for dessert Couer Flottant, which ranges from 90 cents to $1.25 and is in itself a sumptuous meal. A heart-shaped blob of frozen double cream swimming in floating island sauce and surrounded by seasonable fresh fruits over which have been sprinkled flakes of chocolate.
